Wildcats Favored To Defeat Tulsa

Hurricane Expected To Use Slow Break

By Bill Hanna

The Wildcats basketball team will be out to add another victory to their win column when they meet the Golden Hurricanes from Tulsa University who invade Alumni Gymnasium tonight.

Most observers believe that this will be only a breather for Coach Rupp's mighty Cats. According to last season's record they are right. The Golden Hurricanes blew into town last year for a two-game series, only to be weathered down to a slight breeze by the Big Blue. In the two games Kentucky scored 143 points while the boys from the oil country could tally only 40. The Wildcats' second stringers and freshmen saw plenty of action in those two games.

Tulsa Coach Johnny Garrison, who also serves the Hurricane as track coach and football scout, has four of this year's starting five back this season. But it seems as if his boys still have a long way to go, especially in view of their 58-38 loss to East Texas State last week.

A possible "battle of giants" is in the making tonight between Centers Alex Groza (6' 7") and John Clark (6' 8"). Groza had things pretty much his own way over "Long John" last year as he hit the cords for 26 points in the two games. He also held Clark in check and the Hurricane scoring burden was carried by Gerald Carrens, who got 16 points in two games.

If the Tulsons employ the slow type of "set it up and wait" basketball, which is commonly used by Oklahoma A&M and other Western colleges, they may prove more of a foe than the Wildcats bargained for. However, with Groza handling the rebounds and Ralph Beard, Kentucky's hurry-up boy, taking it down-court on the fast break the Olympic champs should win by a comfortable margin.

Beard will get plenty of help on the fast break. Cliff Barker, the Wildcats' passing artist. In last week's opener, with Indiana Central, Barker kept Kentucky students cheering and Hoosier players tearing their hair with his tricky, deceptive passes.

Students who have even-numbered ticket books will get to see the Big Blue in action tonight for the second straight time. Those holding odd-numbered books will see the Arkansas game Monday night.

Chess Exhibit Slated By National Champion

Weaver W. Adams national open chess champion, will appear for a simultaneous exhibit in the card room of the Student Union Building Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Mr. Adams has played in eight national tournaments. He placed third in 1940 and 1941, and won first place this year.

Students who are interested in playing must sign up at the information desk of the Student Union Building before Dec. 15. The playing fees are $1.50 each and spectators will be admitted free.

Players are requested to bring their own boards and chessmen because the Student Union Club has a limited supply.

Wesley Choral Group To Carol Next Week

Wesley Foundation members will carol to various welfare and social institutions on Tuesday, Dec. 12 at 6:00 p.m. The Veterans Hospital, Odd Fellows Hall, and the city Home for Aged Women are among the institutions which they will visit.

The Wesley Choral Club rehearses each Wednesday at 6:15 p.m. in the Y lounge.

A communion service is held each Thursday from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the SUB Little Chapel of the Y Lounge.

Wesley Foundation also sponsors a Sunday breakfast, university class and morning worship beginning at 9:15 a.m. at First Methodist Church.

Organization Requested To Return Kyian Forms

The editors of the Kentuckian request that all campus organizations that have not turned in data forms for their page in this year's Kentuckian, to please do so as soon as possible. All copy must be given the printers before the beginning of Christmas vacation. According to Kyian records, the following groups have not turned in forms:

Scabbard and Blade, Sigma Gamma Epsilon, Student Government, SuKy, Upper Class Y, Freshman Y, Guilford, Cosmopolitan Club, Dutch Lunch Club, Harlan County Club, Patterson Literary Society, Newmen's Club, American Chemical Society, Troupers, Marching Band, Men's Glee Club, Interfaith Council, Pitkin Club, and Omicron Delta Kappa.

Candidate List Grows In Ugly Man Contest

The winner of the Ugly Man Contest will be presented at the intermission of the Student Union Christmas dance scheduled to get underway at 9 p.m. tomorrow.

Alpha Zeta Initiates, Holds SUB Banquet

Alpha Zeta, agricultural honorary, initiated twenty students Dec. 2. Following the initiation a banquet was held in the Student Union Building. Dr. John F. Cunningham, co-founder of Alpha Zeta, was the guest speaker, and Lowell Denton, chancellor, presided.

Those initiated were Fred Arms, W. DeWinter Bures Jr., Robert Crouch, John Crutchfield, Floyd Ellis, Robert Enlow, George Everett, Ray Flannery, Ambrose Givens, Kenneth Grizzell, Jack Haggard, James Hamilton, Ray Hogg, Columbus Letton, Carlisle Moore, Wellington Moor Jr., Willis Moremen, James Muntz, Kenneth Stewart, and Norman Taylor.

Funds Are Approved For New Furnishings

Appropriation of $200,000 to furnish the Pine Arts Building was approved by the executive committee of the Board of Trustees recently according to Leo M. Chamberlain, University vice president.

A committee, headed by Dr. Chamberlain, has been organized to study the requirements and purchase equipment for the new building.

The building will house the departments of music, art, and drama, and will have a divisional library for these departments.

The building is to be ready for use next September.

Associate Editor Named

Mary Shinnick, freshman journalism major, has replaced Stanley Schill as associate editor of the Kentuckian, Charles Whaley, editor, has announced.

Kernel Favored 'No Liquor' Bill Changed Minds, Likes It Still

By Pat Thomas

"We'll build a sweet little still on the side of a Kentucky hill and let the rest of the world go dry" was the theme song of UK students twenty years ago this month.

At that time extras were published by the Kernel staff backing the men's student council which decreed that any student who was found under the influence of intoxicating liquors at a University function could be liable to reprimand, suspension or expulsion.

UK Court Established The resolutions declared that a court had been established to try all students charged with violation of the U.S. prohibition act, and an appeal from the ruling of the court could be taken only to the University senate, faculty governing body of the institution. This establishment was necessary because of the constant infractions of the prohibition act by students.

It seems that all UK Karrie Nations were up in arms about that time. Actions of the council were heartily supported by University authorities who had been at a loss to find methods of enforcing the no drinking rule. Prior to this students had been delegated at the dances to report all violations of the rule brought.

Vets Need Permission To Change Colleges

Any veteran who wishes to transfer from one college to another must have prior approval of the Veterans Administration. It is suggested that veterans report to room 204, Administration building well in advance of the semester in which they wish to transfer colleges in order that proper forms and permission may be filled out.

NYU Man Speaks At Convocation

Dr. Alonzo F. Myers, chairman of the Division of Higher Education at New York University, told a convocation audience of the College of Education Wednesday that we must develop an education based on human needs and devoted to the principle that all education is intended to be used, "if we are to survive in this atomic age."

In his address, entitled "Education for Use," Dr. Myers said that too much of modern education is never used by those receiving it.

He said that education has been unconsciously divided into two parts that intended for use, and that not intended for use. In the first category he said vocational and professional courses had been placed; and in the second, literature, history, music, art, ethics, philosophy and psychology. "Education received in the latter courses is merely stored away in the classroom portion of the human mind."

The New York educator deplored the ill effects which he said resulted from over-specialization in the teaching field.

"General education is bogging down," he said, "because too few of our college professors feel themselves capable of teaching general education courses on the freshman and sophomore levels."

Dr. Myers, who is on sabbatical leave from N.Y.U., is currently visiting colleges and universities throughout the country. His address here was sponsored by Kappa Delta Pi, Phi Delta Kappa, Future Teachers of America, and the Graduate Education Club.

"General education must carefully reconsider its purpose and methods," he said. "We have unconsciously divided education into two parts—that which is intended to be used—vocational and professional courses—and that not intended for use—literature, history, music, art, ethics, philosophy and psychology. Education received in the latter courses is merely stored away in the classroom portion of the human mind."

Tour Of Mexico Offered As Class

The Department of Geography will conduct an educational tour of Mexico for students May 28-June 22, 1949, under the direction of Dr. J. R. Schwendemann, head of the department.

The tour will be conducted as a class, Regional Field Observation 130, and carry three semester hours. Students will study regional geography by observation, lectures, and discussions. Field work, reading, and reporting will be required also.

Highlights of the trip will be crossing the Sierra Madre Oriental range near Mexico City, and then sightseeing in Mexico City. The students will visit and observe work and life in rural and jungle towns and then the tour will visit Aapulco. Part of the tour will be the observation of the volcano Paracutin.

The registration fee is $2.00 and may be paid now for the summer term. The fee will be refunded if the student decides to withdraw.

The University choristers rehearse for their annual Christmas concert on Sunday.

Poet Robert Frost Is Visiting UK For Informal Conferences

Robert Frost, one of the outstanding American poets of this generation, is on the University campus now for a series of informal conferences with young writers.

He will speak to English students this morning at 10 o'clock.

One Public Lecture His only appearance open to all Lexingtonians was 8:30 p. m. Thursday at Memorial Hall. Immediately following the lecture, a reception was held in the music room of the Student Union Building.

Frost Speaks At 10 A.M. A change in today's schedule of Robert Frost's talk has been announced by the English Department.

He will speak at 10 a.m. in Studio A on the third floor of McVey Hall.

to afford interested persons an additional opportunity to meet the renowned poet.

Mr. Frost conferred with students and faculty members Thursday morning at his opening lecture in Memorial Hall.

Teacher Before Poet A teacher before he became a recognized poet, Mr. Frost has had long experience with college students. He has been a professor or poet in residence at the University

SGA Hears Plan To Convert Field Into Parking Lot

A proposal to convert the intramural football field into a parking lot was submitted to the Student Government Assembly on Monday night by Walter Patrick, lower class representative of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Patrick said that the measure was intended to alleviate the crowded parking conditions on the campus, and that the proposed new lot would handle 200 cars at one time.

The eight newly elected members to the assembly and the two who were re-elected in last week's election have been sworn into SGA. This group included: Suzanne Rogers, Education Representative - at-large; Robert S. Smith, Agriculture upperclassman; Herbert Arnold, A&S lowerclassman; Gene Deskins, A&S upperclassman; Claire Hicks, A&S lowerclasswoman; Kathy Barnett, A & S upperclasswoman; Charles Huddleston, College of Law representative - at-large; Allison Caudill, Engineering lowerclassman; W.P. Lewis, Engineering upperclassman; and Gibson Downing, College of Commerce.

Fred Nichols, treasurer, reported to the assembly that the proposed budget for the coming year had been approved by the University administration.

A committee headed by Rusty Russell was instructed by President Johnny Crockett to look into the possibility of obtaining a name band for the Senior Prom, sponsored annually by SGA.

UK Staff Men Write Articles In Magazine

Articles by members of the University faculty and staff on Kentucky's leading industries appear in the current issue of The Manufacturers Record, a publication on industrial developments of the South and Southwest.

Kentucky is the featured state. The articles are by Dr. Arthur McFarlan, head of the geology department; Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, vice-president of the University; and R. W. Wild, director of public relations.

Students Must Report For Proficiency Exams

Arts and Sciences students who are planning to take the foreign language proficiency examinations before the spring semester must report to room 128, McVey Hall, not later than December 17. The exams will be given January 12, 13, and 14.

Regional Subjects Are National The speaker recommended that writers adopt a regional, as opposed to provincial attitude; but he cautioned them to remember that regional assets, shortcomings, and problems are really national in character and scope.

He reminded his listeners that the South's fight against discriminatory freight rates and the West's public lands controversy, though commonly regarded as regional problems, are of vital national importance.

Ticket No. 12 Tonight Student ticket No. 12 will be honored for the Kentucky-Tulsa basketball game tonight in Alumni Gymnasium.

For the Kentucky-Arkansas game Monday evening, ticket No. 9 will be good. The freshman basketball team will play an independent quintet before the Wildcat-Razorback tilt.

The frosh game is scheduled to start at 6:30 p.m.

Kentucky's scrap with Arkansas will be the last home contest for the Wildcats until February 8, when UK will meet Tennessee.

Ceremony Marks ODK Initiation

Omicron Delta Kappa, national senior men's honorary, held a formal candlelighting initiation ceremony at 4:00 p.m., Dec. 5, at First Presbyterian Church.

John Angelis presided, and Fred Nichols, secretary, gave the invocation, an explanation of the ODK key, and the benediction. Ned Breathitt, vice president, Bob Bleidt, and Charles Whaley gave charges of the ideals of ODK to the initiates.

Faculty members who took part in the induction service were Dean Elvin J. Stahl, Dr. Charles E. Snow, and Dr. Dewey Steele.

Candlelight Service Used The service was based on the lighting of five candles which symbolized the fulfillment of required leadership in scholarship, athletics, social and religious affairs, publications, and speech, music, and dramatic arts. Prof. R. D. McIntyre, national treasurer and member of the UK chapter of ODK, was in charge of music.

Those initiated were Jack Bell, Virgil Christian, Andy Clark, John Crockett, Fred Daugherty, John Gillespie, Harold Holtzclaw, Jim Line, John Owens, Ryburn Weakley, and Bob Wharton.

After the initiation a banquet was held at the SUB for the new members. John Angelis gave the invocation and introduced the speakers.

Prof. McIntyre's welcoming address was answered by the initiates' response from Fred Daugherty. The principal speaker was Dr. F. L. McVey, president-elect of UK and honorary member of ODK.

Group Schedules 2 Appearances Sunday

By Otis Perkins

The University Choristers will present their annual program of Christmas music on Sunday in Memorial Hall. Performances will be given at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m., and will be under the direction of Mildred S. Lewis of the music department faculty. Lela Cullis will serve as accompanist.

Most of the compositions featured on the program are of carol type, but church music by 16th and 18th century composers will also be heard.

Five Parts To Program The program, consisting of five parts, will open with a processional, "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing," by Mendelssohn. Part one will include "Fanfare for Christmas Day," by Martin Shaw; "Masters in This Hall," a carol from Chartres, "For Lo! A Heavenly Sound," by Woodbridge; and "Joseph Came Seeking a Resting Place," by Willoughby.

Part two will consist of early sacred carols, including the Old French song, "Angels Over the Fields Were Flying."

For part three the audience and chorus will join in singing the traditional "The First Noel," and other familiar Christmas carols.

Featured as organ soloist on part four, Mrs. Cullis will play "Carillon," by Roberts, and "Kentucky Christmas," by Stanley Saxton.

"Adoramus Te" Included Concluding the concert, the Choristers will sing "Glory To God in the Highest," by Pergolesi; "Adoramus Te," by Palestrina; and "The Shepherd's Story," by Dickinson.

Incidental solos will be sung by Florence Bingham, Phyllis Dean, Marion Stafford, Almo Kiviniemi, and John Veach Rogers. The group which includes 33 singers, is composed of students and members of the staff and faculty.

Proceeding each concert, Ann Peavyhouse will give a half-hour program of Christmas carols on Memorial Hall's carillon bells.

Special guests for Sunday's programs are members of Phi Beta and Phi Mu Alpha fraternities.

Busy Bees Flit Over Campus

"Are there enough good works to go around?" The honorary's members wondered.
"We'll share that wealth of golden deeds!" their fighting prey thundered.
And thus another honorary group is sent forth to sleuth around for "worthwhile campus projects," which may range from carrying bundles for aged faculty members, to organizing a safety patrol on rollerskates.
In their desperation to find something, anything, that can be listed as a project, many of the countless campus honoraries, and clubs, too, clash over who is to get what. It is not unusual to find two or three such societies vying for an outstanding campus event, or asking to share a successful project with another group.
An example of wasteful effort is the honorary that works all year to obtain a set amount of money to send a delegate to the national convention each summer. That is all it does, and it goes through these same pointless efforts year after year.
If there is no actual service for an honorary to perform, why can't it just remain an honorary, a recognition for certain accomplishments.
Why does a club feel that it justifies its existence with some unneeded project, such as picking up candy wrappers from the lawns?
Some valuable and entertaining events are put on by campus organizations. But if a group has no such purpose, and if there is no crying need for some new service it can perform, an honorary should not burden its members with futile "busy-work," and a club should not go on with its tedious, trifling, time-consuming meetings.

'Cardinal' Editor On The-Spot

The editor of the University of Louisville's student newspaper, "The Cardinal," has been accused of "biting the hand that feeds" the school.
For writing an editorial opposing the views of a recent campus speaker for the National Association of Manufacturers, the student editor has been called on the carpet, not by the administration, but by a group of students.

Perhaps a student editor is venturing off the beaten track when he comments on national topics, but the Cardinal editor had that opportunity when speakers on the NAM and on the States Righters appeared on the U of L campus.

Thoughtful, forthright expressions of opinion are rare in college newspapers, but even more unusual is the attitude of a student group which urges clamping down on editorial thought, to avoid treading on important toes.

Whether the Cardinal editor represents the bulk of student opinion in his editorials we have no way of knowing. That he does represent a thinking student, with the courage to say what he thinks, speaks well for the University of Louisville and its students.

Frost's Visit Is Appreciated

Located in Lexington as they are, UK students do not get to hear a great many outstanding persons speak during undergraduate days.

In bringing the distinguished poet Robert Frost to speak at the University, the English department has given students a very fine opportunity, one which has earned the department a great deal of praise.

Perhaps other prominent speakers could be brought to the campus from time to time. Students would appreciate and enjoy the chance to hear them. It's an opportunity available all too seldom.

Letters Must Be Signed

The Kernel cannot use letters to the editor that are unsigned. Names of those who prefer the use of a pseudonym in publication will not be revealed, but the Kernel must have the real names of the writers.

All letters should be less than 300 words long. The Kernel reserves the right to edit letters to fit space demands.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

First of all I wish to express the sincere hope that Miss McFish (and a very appropriate name it is) will one day own a market and can raise her stink and get paid for it.

For a time her "squirrel fruit" letters were a source of amusement, but now it is becoming a detriment to the attitude the public might take to our student body's intelligence.

After all, if 99% of the student body felt as Miss McFish would be having us to believe, I am afraid that they would be eligible for admittance to "Eastern" (the funny farm) rather than the University of Kentucky.

In Russia Miss McFish would be shot without question, for the simple reason that she does not carry out her ideas to their logical conclusion.

With regard to her "Junior G-man" Volcanic Theory, if she would look a little closer she would make the startling discovery that the mysterious mist (or steam) comes from our sewers and that the rumblings are caused by an unknown force known as "The Southern Railway Company."

Therefore we should start a movement to do away with our sewers and out the Southern so as not to disillusion HER.

Miss McFish, you are a crackpot.
BILL MYERS and BOB BENNETT

To the Editor of the Kernel:
How long, I ask myself with a vulgar laugh, will this McFish hoax be perpetuated?

Her excellent letters are fast approaching the regularity of the lunar phases and no less regular are the polemics denouncing her. Which is the more sidesplitting gives one pause.

That Giner is possessed of rare sense of humor goes unsaid, but for horse laughs the diatribes against her crowd close.

Anyone who can read those solemn rebuttals without becoming paled and palsied with laughter won't laugh on Graduation Day when stilted Baptists don mortarboards and enter the fray with loud hosannas.

If seriously written they go unrivalled for puerility since Roosevelt crossed The Bar.

Indeed, the whole thing smacks of a farce. One wonders if Miss McFish didn't write both sets of letters, and I would that she had.

Such a talent for spoofing would be highly welcome, for I grow weary of knowledge dispensed and garnered with the mien of Abeldar protesting to Hebeise the existence of "Higher Things."

It is probable that in her last letter the good Pearl went too far; to anyone, even the average college student, the buffoonery was evident. Still, to avoid the mistake of the liberals, we shouldn't overestimate our fellow man.

The possibility exists that someone, God help us, will write in to stoutly maintain that we do not live over a volcano.

Hopefully,
PAUL CROWLEY
(See elsewhere in the letters column.—Ed.)

To the Editor of The Kernel:

Without hiding behind any piscatorial pseudonym or non de plume, let me urge a post mortem of the Thanksgiving holiday controversy. The University ruling was prompted by the theory that Thanksgiving and Christmas fall too closely together. On this basis the decision contains a great deal of academic merit.

A few years ago, Franklin D. Roosevelt was of the same opinion, advocating the moving of Thanksgiving forward on the calendar. Was the opposition at that time based on the facts of the matter, or merely another opportunity for ridiculing FDR?

Thanksgiving is a traditional holiday, with no definite date designated. Webster says, "A day (usually the last Thursday in November) set apart for thanksgiving and praise to God."

I can remember when the attitude of the Kernel toward controversial issues could be called scholarly. Editorials contained forceful statements of policy, rather than the juvenile pleadings for a day off.

Why not raise this issue to a more mature level? Let's move Thanksgiving forward again, solving a national problem, as well as removing the probability of similar rulings by the University.

Sincerely,
BOB TANNER

(The Kernel has the juvenile idea that voicing student wishes for a holiday is a bit more practical than a scholarly attempt to get the government to change the date of Thanksgiving.—Ed.)

Dear Editor:
This is to certify that we, the undersigned, do most wholeheartedly approve of the courageous proclamation.

"Which should go, children or dogs?"
The dogs won the vote, surprisingly. This question was brought up by the parents of children living in Copeley Hill at the University of Virginia. The parents felt that their children were in danger from the dogs. Nevertheless, the dogs won, but the children haven't "gone" yet.

A woman approached the pearly gates and spoke to St. Peter.
"Do you know if my husband is here? His name is Smith."
"Lady, we have lots of them here. You'll have to be more specific."
"Joe Smith."
"Lots of them, too. You will have to give me more identification."
"Well, when he died he said that if I was ever untrue to him he would turn over in his grave."
"Oh, you mean 'Pinwheel' Smith."

The senior class executive committee at Indiana University has delivered an ultimatum to those on campus who infringe upon the sacred and hallowed tradition of limiting yellow corduroy skirts and trousers to seniors.

Their declaration reads as follows: "Any person, whether of the male or female species, wearing such yellow senior cords, and not being members of the senior class, are legitimately inviting a trip to the River Jordan for a bath sans traditional senior cords or to be 'de-pantsed,' and such cords to be deposited in the top-most part of the highest tree in the vicinity of such violation."

LETTERS

mations of Miss Gineen Pearl McFish.

Regarding Mr. Jewell G. Addison, how could he think that we would desire anything that would deter us from our higher education?

We came here not to party, but to drink—deep of the fountain of knowledge. How can the University be so foolish as to plague us with dances, bridge lessons, and the like?

These actions distract the serious student, and prove tempting for a weaker nature. What we want are more concerts, more lectures, and more assignments!

And as for the Student Union Building, it is inconsistent with the policy of an institution of such erudite matters as this one is noted to be. One might think that this is a place of frivolity.

Our comrades frequent the Grill in order to loiter over coffee in a dense, smoky atmosphere, and chat with other shallow-minded creatures. This should not be the case!

Why search for friends? One's best friend is one's book.

We therefore propose that the Grill should be a quiet haven for those who wish to meditate upon such matters as philosophy, great literature, and the arts.

Do away with the juke-box—or at least substitute Bach for boogie. Of course such a delightful spot could no longer be called the Grill. Let us rename it the Socratic Room.

The remainder of the building should naturally be converted into an annex of the library.

We are anxiously awaiting the day when cuts are abolished, holidays are a thing of the past, dancing is regarded as an antique tribal custom, and girls dream of Spinoza instead of Sinatra.

Yours for a bigger and better library,

Dear Miss Deiss:

Friday night I stayed at home with a good book. Likewise Saturday night and Sunday night.

I am an attractive girl of nineteen. I have green eyes and red hair and some people call me cute.

Why should I spend night after night curled up with a good book? I don't like to read.

The University of California has a date bureau and I for one think that this is a good idea.

The SGA could get behind such a project with the Great Lounge of the SUB as a base of operations. Perhaps there are even some members of the SGA who are lonely.

Or maybe they could auction off the winner of the Ugly Man contest tomorrow night.

All I want for Christmas is a man
Sudie Mae Flower

Editor, the Kernel:

Another Dec. 7 has passed. Much has been written of the infamy of that day and the carnage following. But no stirring war epic surpasses the drama of the University campus since "The war-drum throb'd no longer and the battle-flags were fur'd."

A crusade has crossed the once-blighted paths, a medley of pilgrims spurred by a common inspiration. They have come from the dungeons of war to pay homage at the shrine of knowledge.

The strapping youth with heroic gait, seeking weapons for victory in peace as he had known in war; the less fortunate at the crisis of a new life striving to overcome visible handicaps; the sad of eye whose tread wavers now and then, for his wound was deeper than the flesh could carry; and the old man, older than his age, whose college was but fancy before years were lifted from his life.

The mature young lady, who traveled far under the flag mingling with the rosy-cheeked lass of teens. The widowed tread the path with sons who will never remember their hero fathers.

And in the shadows the ghosts remain, the ghosts of those who walk no more. Their names may be carved on a desk, written on a wall, or maybe they left no trace at all, only a memory.

The pilgrims' eyes never falter from the goal of wisdom, for in each heart is a cry for peace. Knowledge is itself a power—a power to create a peaceful world.

Bob Tanner

Editor, the Kernel:
May I herewith say a word in commendation of your news editor and your staff in general for keeping their perspective straight and thereby giving the right emphasis to proper things.

For example, I note that in the last issue of the Kernel one football player received 15 inches of space and another (including his picture) 26 inches. The importance of these two men and the lack of recognition that is nearly always the sad fate of college athletes well justifies the space they received in comparison with the three inches allotted Robert Frost, that poet fellow who is going to lecture in Memorial Hall.

They deserve, too, the advantageous upper left corner of the page with the double-column headlines instead of the lower right to which Mr. Frost was quite properly assigned. The picture, I think, is timely also, for the students on the campus never have half enough chance to see our local athletes, whereas Frost—oh well, who cares anyway!

And another thing: this is, after all the first visit Frost has ever made to the campus; he is an old man and may never be here again anyway; so why should the Kernel, or anyone else, for that matter, make much ado about him, even though a lot of people do seem to think that he is the greatest living American poet.

What the world needs is a sense of genuine values, and I personally am delighted that the newspapers in our universities are meeting the challenge squarely and providing an example of real crusading.

SON OF FAIR PLAY

(You haven't raced to a conclusion in saying the poet's visit was underplayed. No picture, however, was available.—Ed.)

To the Editor:

Would you kindly print this in reply to last week's letter from Gineen Pearl McFish. Thank you. My Dear Miss McFish:

Your letter of last week was the incentive for a trip by a group of geologists to investigate the alleged volcanism present beneath the campus.

That evidence of igneous activity—being present in juxtaposition to Miller Hall, the mother-lode of geological knowledge, without the approval of the Department of Geology was at first thought to be absurd. It still is.

However, to support our contentions, a group of scientific investigators descended into one of the openings which was spewing forth decidedly unpleasant fumes. We were armed with picks, Bruntons, and other equipment with which geologists usually combat the process of nature.

Having descended and acquainted ourselves to the gloom which was being broken occasionally by blasts of fire, which naturally startled us, we bravely pushed on toward the apparent source.

It was not as you, in your unintelligence and obvious infancy, proclaimed to be a geological phenomenon, but a large monster, breathing fire in a rather calm manner. It was not at all perturbed by our group, but we, of course, lost all interest as it smelled and was therefore not a fossil and belonged to the zoology department.

It is suggested that this matter be investigated by Dr. Allen of that department.

I should like personally to suggest that you go and stick your own pointed head in one of the alleged volcanic fissures.

Unaffectionately,
DR. VINCENT A. C. ROCK-
BUSTER

Editor, The Kentucky Kernel:
Milady, may I suggest a vote of thanks to whoever is responsible for the radio being placed in the second floor lobby of the King Library last Saturday afternoon during the Metropolitan Opera broadcast of "Mignon."

It is to be hoped that this progressive development may be continued throughout the opera season. Saturday afternoon's performance of "Tristan and Isolde" should be particularly good.

After breaking one or two of your better editorial lances over the Library's service recently, it might be well to administer a pat on the back in this instance.

Giovanni Macaroni

Dear Sir:
During the past several weeks, while glancing through your lovely advertisements for bits of news, my eyes have been arrested by a name: Gineen Pearl McFish.
I say to myself this must be a new type "Miss Hush" contest. But no, it couldn't be, because there are no prizes offered.

Please, won't you furnish more clues to the identity? The suspense is terrific.

To date you have shown she has an inkling of statistics from her Gallup conclusion. In addition, some knowledge of geology.

Also from her letters she appears to be around 16 or younger, an arts and sciences freshman, introvert, a student with career undecided—but enough of this. It may be divulging too many secrets.

So won't you please publish more clues before things have gone too far? You know lynching will be illegal after the first of the year. We want everything to be within the law, don't we?

Yours for justice,
J. W. B.

(Let's hope so. We'd like to help you on the identification but we don't have the necessary clues. The name of a letter-writer who prefers to use a pseudonym need not be revealed, as long as the publication has his real name.—Ed.)

Valleau Elected Head Of National Society

Dr. W. D. Valleau, University plant pathologist, has been elected president of the American Phytopathological Society for the coming year.

Dr. Valleau was elected at the annual meeting in Pittsburgh Tuesday to succeed R. S. Kirby, Penn State College.

The society is composed of plant disease specialists.

Interviews Being Held For Training Program

Interviews concerning the aviation cadet-pilot training program are being held in room 128, Student Union Building today.

Major B. M. Campbell and Capt. E. M. Helm, of First Air Force Headquarters, Ft. Slocum, N.Y., will discuss qualifications for pilot training with applicants.

Bureau Conducts Survey

The University Bureau of Community Service recently conducted a survey to determine how the residents of Lexington and Fayette county felt about the proposed community council.

UK sociology students conducted all interviews in the survey, according to John H. Given, director of the Bureau.

Chaplain To Speak

The Rev. Lawrence K. Baxter, Episcopal chaplain to the University, will speak on "The Church's Position on the Campus" at the weekly noon meeting of Phalanx Fraternity on Dec. 14.

The meeting will be held in the SUB.

Wide use of the pressure cooker by Australian bush men is unlikely and impractical, home economics authorities have announced.

The first press was set up in Paris in 1470.

200 Students Register In Journalism Convo In Kernel Office

Approximately 200 high school journalists registered here last Friday for the annual Kentucky High School Press Association conference. The meet lasted through noon Saturday.

Contests were conducted in news writing, feature writing, editorial writing, and advertising. The contests were judged by members of the Henry Watterson Press Club and Theta Sigma Phi, journalism honoraries.

Freshman Y Prepares For Christmas Party

Members of the Freshman Y Club are preparing for the annual Christmas party sponsored each year by the YM-YWCA and the Pitkin Club for the kindergarten and first grade children of Lincoln School. A special Christmas tree is being planned.

Committees are conducting a program whereby students will have the opportunity to aid these children in having a Christmas.

Containers will be placed in the cafeteria and book store for students who wish to contribute. At their weekly meeting, Dec. 14, in the SUB, freshmen members will wrap presents and sack candy for the party on Dec. 22.

Gloria Baltis, social chairman, is in charge of the arrangements.

Applications Accepted For Pharmacologists

The U. S. Civil Service Commission is accepting applications for pharmacologists to fill positions in the Federal Security Agency in Washington.

Applicants must have appropriate college work or a combination of college work and experience, and one to three years of professional experience in the fields of biochemistry, animal physiology, pharmacology, or toxicology.

Application forms may be secured at most first- and second-class post-offices, from Civil Service regional offices, or direct from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D.C.

Yule Season Opened With SUB Ceremony

The traditional "Hanging of the Greens" ceremony, marking the beginning of the Christmas season at the University, was held yesterday afternoon in the Great Hall of the SUB.

Sponsored jointly by the YW and YMCA cabinets and the Student Union Board, the program included selections by the Men's Glee Club, and a Christmas reading by Mrs. George Edwin Smith.

Yule Ceremony Held

The Kernel staff celebrated the beginning of the holiday season this year by conducting a "Hanging of the Greens" ceremony in the editor's office late Wednesday night.

Harry Green, managing editor of the Kernel, was the main feature of the program. In appreciation for his efforts on the paper this semester, he was handed from a large steam pipe with a strong Manila rope. He got in the spirit of the occasion by rapidly turning green.

During the ceremony songs were led by J. Bruno Halifax. Soloists in the chorus were Butch McGillicuddy and Gineen Pearl McFish.

The Kernel staff believes more organizations on campus should get in the spirit of the season by having these informal hang-overs.

Newman Club To Meet

The Newman Club will hold its monthly Mass and Communion breakfast meeting on Sunday, at St. Catherine's Academy.

Mass will begin at 9:30 a.m. and confessions will be heard from 8:30-9:30 a.m. Father Elmer Grosser, Newman Club chaplain, will be celebrant.

The first complete scale of wages for printers was adopted in 1800.

Newsboys were first used in America in 1761.

The Spice Of Life

By Rubye Graham
and Jobie Anderson

Get out your ice picks, 'cause here we come again!

The "Ugly Man" contest seems a sure cinch for Crusty. At least we have one man about campus who'll admit he's homely—anything for a little publicity.

Snake Simmons has sent Santa Claus a letter. All he wants this year is Katherine Winebriner.

The fact that Tommy Underwood was out with his old flame, Nancy Shearer, on Saturday night didn't prevent him from getting pinned to Patsy Allen in the Chi O garage on Sunday.

Andy Moats and J. D. Vaughn are sharpening their knives and tongues to cut the triangle which involves Liz Gunther. A few minor stabs have already been administered.

Sybil Carey is eagerly awaiting Bob Mason's return from Florida.

A Transy student sent a dozen red roses to Mary Dunlap after their first date. Good work, we'd say!

Carolyn "Muscles" Critchlow has met one guy she can't push around.

Morgan Boyd has been burning the portion of Harrison Avenue between Lydia Brown and the SN House. Is Lois Udry the reason?

Gals are waiting and the Sigma Chi's are laughing because three members of the "Old Guard," Dick Beal, Harry Carl, and Sing Year, have taken their physicals.

Speaking of the "Sing Song" boy, is it true that he and "Woo" McCaulley have broken up?

Ste Mahurin, SAE grandpa, is being seen out with a freshman.

Agnes Hutchinson has another hair-do—maybe she has a new beau!

Is it true that Cliff Miller fainted and had to have a transfusion when he gave a pint of blood?

Jo Ann Sellards and "Ears" Snowden are dating quite frequently.

Constant twosome: Lou Fanning and Sally Ede.

The Lambda Chi's are getting angry with Durward Kay for blowing so many fuses with his newly installed pinball machine.

"Mouse" Seaman has been asking everybody why he was nominated for the "Ugly Man" contest. Seems as though he thought it was the BMOC instead of the UMOC!

A feud exists between two Sig Eps over Max Larkin. Don't forget that Mae is still a pined woman.

The ATO's debated whether to choose Miss Icicle or Miss Drip, but have ended the feud by deciding on just a plain ole queen.

Nominated to replace the juke in the Grill: Frank Bassett.

The Deltas are certainly proud of John Jenkins. John has been named the champion corn grower in Kentucky. He turned under five tons of fertilizer in one season.

George Trotter is trying to set the world on fire. The Funkhouser Building is a fine place to start.

Moe Long met the parents Sunday—he's still living.

What gal has Sid Neal quoting Shakespeare at 4 a.m.?

Engaged: Margaret Oatis and Charles Ray Barker; Nell Payne and Doc Ferrell; Julia Ann Hurst and Buzzy Meyers.

Pinned: Pat Hall and Don Grugin; Carolyn Wray and Bill Byron.

A Phi Sig got pinned the other night but received the traditional cold shower in the Sigma Chi House. Apparently the Phi Sigs don't use water across the street. The SX's report all conveniences, including a pipeline to "Dees."

Kampus Kouples: Jim Heffernan and Charlotte Erskine.

The gals in Boyd Hall are rapidly going crazy hearing the name of a Western football player being repeated so often by Faye Wesley. He'll be here this weekend.

Salty Arbuckle and Joe Ballard had a mighty fine time visiting people in the wee hours of the morning last Sunday. Do you still want to play football, Salty?

John Parrish is still giving out with "Readin', Rittin', and Rhythm" on these cold, frosty nights. Seems like Johnny and his cohorts have the same ideas as the Kernel staff about after-hour parties.

The pinning of Ruth Halverson and Ed Baker started at Marietta and is still going strong on the UK campus.

Congratulations to PR queen Bertha Lutes!

The habit of being late seems to grow on Angie Schmidt, but her date for the Boyd Hall formal can vouch that shampooing Marie Symphon's hair ten minutes before the dance is a very poor excuse.

"Talk it up—see you there!" Do those words strike a familiar note? H. B. Wright is now singing "Two Loves Have I."

Bill "Mambles" Usher had a date with Shelly Thompson, a Tri-Delt pledge. How 'bout it, Billie Jean???

The Sigma Nu's are already laying the cornerstones for another bar-becue next fall.

Freddie Dorr and Jo Rhodes are fast becoming an often-seen couple. Where does Harold Hunt's true love lie—in South Carolina or Boyd Hall?

Caroline Walker and Paul Foster plan a vacation wedding in Hoptown. Don Droun has decided to take leave of the cow college and give Sarah and Judy a break.

Tom Collins and Monroe Burdette tore up a U-Drive It in true Barney Oldfield fashion.

What happened to Bill Stoll that kept him four days in Huntington, W. Va.?

Bobby Hutchinson has been stabbed once too often. From now on, he's strictly a coke date.

Where did Dick Pickens go while Sybil was dancing?

Woe upon us! Billy Boggs wants to go steady with Dusty Rhodes. Hope you're still our friends!

Nell Martin had two fellows,

Hillel Dinner Dance

Hillel will sponsor an informal dinner meeting and dance for the Intercollegiate Zionists Federation of America tri-chapter meet, Sunday at 5:30 p.m.

The dinner-dance will be held at the Synagogue Ohava Zion on Maxwell Street. I.Z.F.A. representatives from Louisville, Lexington and Cincinnati will attend.

Math Group Plans Party

Reserve Officers Hold

The Kentucky Alpha chapter of Pi Mu Epsilon, national mathematics honorary, will have a Christmas party Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Faculty Club.

If a single amoeba divides in half every second for one hour, it is kept pretty busy.

One would whisper—th' other bel-lows; Now the quiet one is gone, But Almightily rages on!

Charles Sharpe spends at least five days of the week in Harrodsburg. So with another clean sweep, the dirt goes under the presses in the basement of McVey Hall. In case you may be tempted to forget we're reminding you again: the Spies of Life are always right behind you!

Entertainment Held By Housemothers Club

The University Housemothers Club entertained Tuesday with a Christmas luncheon in the Colonial Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

The table was decorated with white Christmas trees. A large wreath tied with a red satin bow formed the centerpiece for the table.

Hostesses were Mrs. J. T. Pride, Mrs. Ethel Fish, Mrs. Ballard Luxon, and Mrs. T. W. Sweatt.

Mrs. Mabel Riedell is president of the club.

Home Ec Club Plans Christmas Party

The Home Economics Club will have a Christmas party Monday night at 7:15 in the Home Economics Building.

All male students in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics are invited.

Alpha Gams Entertain

A group of underprivileged children will be guests of Alpha Gamma Delta Sunday afternoon in an annual Christmas party. Movies will be shown and gifts from the actives and pledges of the sorority will be distributed among the children.

Faculty To Entertain

The University Faculty Club will entertain with a buffet supper from 5-6:30 p.m. Sunday at the club house on the campus. Members, their families, and guests will be welcomed.

The supper is being held between the afternoon and evening Christmas programs in Memorial Hall.

Benefit Bridge Held

A benefit bridge was held at the Kappa Delta House on Nov. 30. Guests included Dean Sarah B. Holmes and Dr. Jane Haselden.

Gail Price, social chairman was in charge of arrangements.

Sig Eps Hold Annual Dinner Dance Tonight

Sigma Phi Epsilon will hold its fourth annual "Dream Girl" dinner dance tonight from 6-12 at the Lexington Country Club.

The "dream girl" has been selected from a field of ten candidates, one from each sorority. She will be presented with a cup at intermission. Last year's winner was Robbie Potter, Kappa Delta representative.

Chaperones are Dr. and Mrs. Leo M. Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Bronston Kenny, Dean Sarah B. Holmes, Dr. Jane Haselden, and Mrs. T. W. Sweatt, housemother.

Ray Rose, social chairman, is in charge of arrangements.

Engineers To Assist Chapter Installation

Several engineering students and faculty advisers will leave tomorrow morning for Knoxville, where they will assist in the installation of a new chapter of Eta Kappa Nu, electrical engineering honorary.

Delegates include C. V. Becraft, president of the University chapter of Eta Kappa Nu; Tom B. Elliott, secretary; Dr. H. Alex Romanowicz, faculty adviser; and Prof. H. W. Farris, assistant faculty adviser.

A. B. Ferby, national secretary of Eta Kappa Nu, will visit the UK chapter on Monday.

Will Hold Dance

The Cosmopolitan Club will hold an informal dance for members and their friends tonight in the card room of the Student Union Building.

Intermission entertainment will include a dance by Tau Sigma, songs by a mixed quartet, and demonstrations of Latin American dances. Refreshments will be served.

Alpha Gams Plan Christmas Formal

Alpha Gamma Delta will entertain with its Christmas formal to-night from 9-12 in the Gold Room of the Lafayette Hotel. Bob Bleidt and his orchestra will play.

The room will be decorated with large Christmas tree, holly, and red tapers.

Chaperones are Mrs. Sears Moss, housemother; Dean Sarah B. Holmes, Dr. Jane Haselden, Mrs. Ballard Luxon, and Mrs. William Webb.

Carolyn Hayes and Bobbie Dean are dance chairmen.

Delta Delta Delta Honors Housemother With Tea

Delta Delta Delta honored Mrs. Lucille Phillips, housemother of the sorority, with a tea Monday afternoon at the chapter house. Christmas decorations were used throughout the house.

Forty housemothers and staff members from the residence halls are welcomed.

Reserve Officers Hold Informal Dance Tonight

The Reserve Officers Association of the University and Lexington division is sponsoring an informal dance tonight at the Avon Signal Depot, Winchester Road, from 9-12.

J. B. McNamara, president, has announced that uniforms are optional.

Reservations may be made by calling Howard Morgan, social chairman, at Shelby 2782-X.

Special guests include Col. G. T. Mackenzie, commanding officers of the University ROTC Unit; Col. William M. Mack, commanding officer of the Avon Signal Depot; Lt. Col. Thomas J. Quinn, commanding officer of the Kentucky Military District of Lexington; and Lt. Commander W. H. Bargehlo, senior instructor, Lexington Naval Reserve Unit.

Tickets for the dance are $2.00, stag or drag.

University of Illinois Added To '49 Kentucky Fencing Card

The fencing season will not open officially until February 1. Behind the first match with the University of Illinois, however, will be long workouts and special training.

Practice hours for the fencing team are from 4:00 until 6:00 every afternoon.

"It takes as much time to develop a good fencing team as it does for a good football or basketball squad," said Scott Breckinridge, team coach and one of the leading fencers in the state. "We want freshmen to come out for the team who are willing to do a little hard work to learn the fundamentals."

Breckinridge and his father, a former Olympic champion, are authors of a book on the sport.

The 1949 schedule includes meets with several teams the University fenced last year and with one new opponent, the University of Illinois.

The complete schedule is as follows:

Univ. of Illinois, Feb. 11, Urbana, Ill. Vanderbilt University, Feb. 19, here Univ. of Cincinnati, Feb. 26, here Univ. of Louisville, Mar. 12, here Univ. of Cincinnati, Mar. 19, here Vanderbilt Univ., Apr. 2, Nashville

Gain Selected On Another National All-Soph Eleven

Bob Gain was accorded another honor recently when the editors of Sports Extra, the weekly encyclopedia of all sports, published in New York City, selected him as one of the tackles on the national All-Sophomore football team for the 1948 season.

The lineup for the aggregation was as follows:

Ends: Bob Walston (Georgia) and Dan Foldberg (Army).
Tackles: Bob Gain (KENTUCKY) and Allen Wahl (Michigan).
Guards: Ray Elkas (Tennessee) and Johnny Chernak (Brown).
Center: Pat O'Sullivan (Alabama).
Quarterback: Johnny Clayton (Dartmouth).
Halfbacks: Kyle Rote (SMU) and Chuck Ortmann (Michigan).
Fullback: Gil Stephenson (Army).

Arkansas Game Will Be Last In Home Gym Until February

Kentucky's basketball Wildcat's make their final appearance of the 1948 year Monday night against the Arkansas Razorbacks. The defending NCAA champs do not play another home game on the Euclid Avenue court until February 8, when they play their arch rivals, the Tennessee Volunteers.

The Parker-Wildcat clash is the only one between Kentucky and a Southwest Conference team this year.

Coach Gene Lambert of Arkansas lost two men from last year's strong team that won eight and lost four in the conference. However, both men played valuable roles in the Razorback success story last season.

7-Foot Player Gone
Replacements had to be found for seven-foot George Kok, who scored 469 points last year, and 6' 6" Forward Al Williams.

However, Lambert has a bevy of veteran lettermen and one of the finest crops of promising sophomores ever seen in the Southwest Conference. From his 15-man squad, Lambert has picked the five men he thinks will fight, hustle and drive every minute of the game. The loss of Kok will change the Parker attack to a fast-breaking, speed-crazy affair, similar to the tactics used by Kentucky.

At center is Bob Anderson, a 6' 7" sophomore from Texarkana, Arkansas. Bob was a rugged star last year on the freshman team and should make all-conference before graduating.

Two veterans usually get the starting nod at forward. They are Cliff

Tau Sigma Schedules Recital For Tuesday

Tau Sigma, modern dance group, will present a recital at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday at the Guignol theater. Mrs. Revell Shaw, director, announced.

The program will be given for the Lexington McDowell Club, its guests, and the University faculty. Students who wish to attend may call Mrs. Shaw at the Women's Gym, the director said.

The entire Tau Sigma group of 35 dancers will give the program, which is to be a comparison of ballet with modern dance.

Solos will be danced by Betty Elliott, Vivian Hereford, Ann Butten, Marie Johnson, and Joe Marks. The first part of the program will be on ballet forms and classical technique, and the second part will be devoted to modern forms, Mrs. Shaw said.

A student teacher at Illinois State Normal was visited by his brother, who happens to be his twin. The first brother asked his twin to sit in on a class for him. He told his twin all about the seating, so that the second twin would know the students' names around him. The only way one could possibly tell the difference between the two was that the visitor jingled money in his pocket, while his brother never did. The first brother stayed outside in the doorway to see what happened. Unfortunately, he had fore-gotten to give his visiting twin some very important papers that were due that day. Of course the teacher asked for them.

The visiting twin mumbled something about leaving them in the hall, and rushed outside the classroom. Presently both twins walked in together warbling the while: "It's terrible to be Twins."

DisKentucky Sports Review

— By Tom Diskin, Sports Editor —

For the second straight time, even-numbered books will be honored when the Wildcats tear into the Tulsa team tonight.

Most of the students who witnessed the Indiana Central game will therefore attend the Tulsa tilt this evening.

We feel obligated to make one comment to the students who gave the "Bronx cheer" to the game officials, when their names were announced over the public address system at the start of the IC-UK game 11 days ago.

Possibly no harm was meant by this booing. However, hundreds of radio listeners all over the State heard the Kentucky students boo two officials who, at that time, had not even blown a whistle.

Hundreds heard some unthinking students boo two men—the first a former major league baseball pitcher, and the second official a former All-American basketball player here at UK and one of the greatest ever to play for the Big Blue. These men had done nothing to rate such an ugly demonstration.

Believe that booing, except in extremely rare cases, is entirely uncalled for at a collegiate basketball game. This holds true not only for officials but players of the opposing team.

Remember the visiting players and officials judge the entire school by the conduct of our students at the game. Let's conduct ourselves just as well as those Kentucky players down there on the court.

High school football in Miami is tremendously popular. One game this fall between Miami Jackson and Miami Senior drew 37,000 people to the Orange Bowl Stadium.

On Thanksgiving night, we saw Senior High play Miami Edison. Because Edison had a comparatively weak team, only 14,592 persons turned out for the game. This was one of the smallest crowds of the season.

Senior High won, 33-6, but despite the lopsided score, the game was interesting to watch for it was full of good, hard football.

Athletic Director Bernie Shively said after the contest that he had never seen such sharp tackling by a pair of high school teams. And he has seen quite a few grid games in the past 20 years.

The halftime show by the two high school bands was really something to see. Both bands combined to form a 240-piece marching outfit covering the entire length and width of the gridiron.

In addition, the two schools each had about three dozen majorettes, and Edison High sported a 30-piece cadet unit which marched with machine-like precision.

It was the most colorful halftime show we have ever viewed.

Speaking of bands, the University of Miami has a 100-piece marching organization which is dressed in uniforms of a modified West Point cadet type. The new uniforms cost UM a total of $10,000. Their drum major is Bill Allen, who is the national champion band twirler. The band will tour Florida this winter in a series of concerts.

Adolph Rupp's new book, "Championship Basketball," is off the press. The book, published by Prentice-Hall, of New York, will sell for $2.

Coach Rupp has also written an article for the January issue of Pageant Magazine. The title of the story is "Let's Look At Basketball." The Baron points out eight moments to look for in a basketball game.

A story on Alex Groza and his family is in the current issue of Sport Magazine. Ralph Beard will be featured in this publication in the March issue.

The annual football banquet was held last Thursday, under the direction of Miss Helen King. Bernie Moore, commissioner of the SEC, was principal speaker.

UK's "Comeback Kids" received plenty of well-deserved praise from all the speakers.

Coach Paul Bryant said, "I'm proud of this team. I've never been connected with an outfit that has my admiration like this team has." The footballers made a good impression with Miamians from all that we heard and read.

Said Jimmy Burns, sports editor of The Miami Herald: "The Kentucky team and Coach Bear Bryant, one of the nicest guys in the business, made quite an impression here. Within a short time Bryant will have his team in the top flight of the Southeastern Conference. It'd be nice to have the Wildcats return here."

From The Miami Herald, the day after the Wildcat-Hurricane tussle: "Kentucky players on the bench showed more spirit than any club to face the Hurricanes in this fall. There was a continual line of chatter going on with players yelling encouragement to their mates on the field."

We feel that the spirit of the UK team this season was remarkable. It seemed to become more pronounced as the season advanced. We hope that the Cats take up next season where they left off this fall.

Another writer, Morris McEmore, of The Miami Daily News wrote: "Bear Bryant's comely features lend credence to his reputation as the Gregory Peck of the blue-cured tobacco belt. His most notable accomplishments at Lexington have been occasional forays from under the shadow of Adolph Rupp, the most colorful basketball coach in American and by long odds the biggest space-grabber in the territory since Daniel Boone."

Prindl Reorganizes UK Band Into Two Units For Winter

By Boyd Kernan

Along with the sports activities on the campus, the University's 100-piece marching band has become "winterized." Football games of the 1948 football season are in the past and Director Frank J. Prindl has completely reorganized his famed Dixie musicians.

The 1948 version of the University's crack marching outfit has been divided into two complete units. A 40-piece varsity band composed largely of braves has been organized for the purpose of providing music for home basketball games. This aggregation will also serve the military department in any ROTC function during the winter and spring. The remainder of the marching band makes up the University concert band which is known throughout the South as one of the outstanding symphonic groups in this section of the country. Among the concert band's appearances will be a spring concert program which will be presented on May 1. Director Prindl has announced that this group may also play quite a number of concerts throughout the state.

During the past year the Uni-

Kentucky's Quarterback George Blanda, left, and Head Coach Paul Bryant are shown at the annual football banquet shortly after Blanda was presented the Lederer trophy as the team's Most Valuable Player. Blanda, who was also named as honorary captain for the past season by his teammates, will compete in the first annual Southern-Northern grid game at Miami, Fla., Christmas Day.

varsity band made over 30 public appearances. Highlighting these appearances were the recent performances for the UK football games. Only one football trip was taken to Wildcat games by this year's band, that being the journey to Knoxville, Tenn., for the game with the University of Tennessee.

In every football game presentation, Director Prindl combined intricate formations with traditional maneuvers. One of the most colorful half-time shows ever seen on Stoll Field was applauded by more than twenty thousand spectators in an early season night game when the band formed a huge show boat.

At this game, a half-time minstrel show was staged within the show boat. Also, the band floated the vessel down the field with a paddle wheel moving in perfect rhythm.

Another highlight of the season was a music and formation tribute to the political parties shortly before the national election. Among other formations, the band displayed their versions of the Democratic donkey, the Republican elephant, and the Dixiecrat's Confederate flag.

The Wildcat musicians closed their marching season at Knoxville with a Thanksgiving novelty show. Featured in this drill was an outline of a monstrous turkey. Although the band drills are based on strict military precision, the season offered many unique formations of other types. Outstanding was a representation of a church accompanied by the rendition of a sacred hymn.

"And when you pass this last small test, Durable, you'll be an accepted member of ΔKΔ fraternity!"

Last year the Blue and White musicians journeyed to Cleveland with the Wildcat team for the Great Lakes Bowl football game. The band's annual participation in the Southeastern Conference Basketball Tournament is one of the top features of that event.

Kentucky Derby

This band has the annual honor of performing before what is possibly the largest sports crowd in America, the Kentucky Derby. More than 100,000 sportsters listen yearly to the University band as it joins with other bands to play "My Old Kentucky Home."

Director Prindl and his band have been invited to participate in the top state affairs for several years. Among such events last year were the Governor's inauguration and the annual Mountain Laurel Music Festival at Pine Mountain.

University students are well aware of the title "Best Band in Dixie" as used by newspapers in the South to describe the Kentucky musicians. The band originally got this title back in 1923 when it made a trip into the deep South with a University of Kentucky football team. After the team took a shellacking, a sympathetic Atlanta, Ga., sports writer commented on the fact that Kentucky might at least boast of the leading band in the South.

The band has a history almost as old as the University itself. A photograph owned by the music department shows the band of 1889 with a membership of 15. It has been steadily increasing in size and quality since that time.

Hutchinson Drugs, an independent team, will be the foe of the clanking UK Kittens Monday night at 6 p.m. in a preliminary game to the Kentucky-Arkansas tilt.

Kentucky's freshman basketball team gave the varsity a scrap last Saturday night in Alumni Gym, but lost 41-71.

Approximately 1,500 townspeople took advantage of the opportunity to see the world champions play the future Wildcaters.

The varsity showed only flashes of the polish and skill that sent them to the Olympics, while the freshmen were battling for all they had. However, the varsity team was never in danger and were in from 37-21 at the half.

For the freshmen, Dick Swan and Bill Spivey played well, while Alex Groza and Ralph Beard were outstanding for the varsity.

High for the Wildcats was Beard with 17, while Groza got 13. For the frosh, Len Pearson got 8 markers, while Bill Spivey chucked in 7 points. At the end of the regular game, the score stood at 71-41 in favor of the varsity, but Coach Rupp had the two teams play an additional 10 minutes. During this time the varsity regulars looked good and worked plays smoothly. At the completion of the extra period, the score was 100-48.

Ralph Beard

By Kent Hollingsworth

With 18,600 screaming basketball fans reminding him 30 seconds remained with the score tied, 45-45, Kentucky's ball bearing Ralph Beard walked calmly up to the foul line. He bounced the ball a couple of times, chewed his gum, and dropped through the point that knocked the roof off Madison Square Garden and won the 1946 National Invitational Basketball Tournament for Kentucky.

Rhode Island State had nipped each team by only a few points to ease its way into the finals, and led by their great star, Ernie Calverle, had just reached their peak for the season. Freshman Ralph Beard was appointed by Coach Rupp to guard Calverle.

He did. Calverle got only two field goals and some free throws as the 18-year-old Ralph Beard was high point man for both teams, with 13 points.

Star At Male High
Twice All America, thrice All-SEC, basketball's Outstanding Performer of '47, Outstanding Player to Appear in Madison Square Garden last year, and a member of the U.S. Olympic team, Beard was born in Lewisburg, Ky.

His family moved to Louisville when Ralph was a sophomore in high school and he was declared ineligible his first year when he entered Male High there.

However, his junior and senior years he played halfback on the football team; was unanimous all-State guard selection from the state champion Male basketeers; played third base on the high school baseball champs; and helped Male run away with the state track meet by winning the 880-yard dash.

The Louisville lad entered the University of Kentucky in the fall of '45 and immediately went out for football practice. He played three games for the Wildcat footballers before he tried to slip between two 220-pounders. He didn't make it and hung up his football shoes for good, with two separated shoulders.

Player-Of-Week Twice
He was starting guard when the basketball season opened and was twice selected as player of the week by a national wire service. However he was known chiefly as a defensive man his first year.

Following the National Invitational Tournament Beard returned to Lexington and went right out for baseball. Joining the baseball team aspirants in jogging around the diamond, Rapid Ralph, who is hard as a Sherman tank, said, "B-B-Boy, I really need this."

Shifted to second base, Beard improved rapidly each year. Last year teamed with flashy Johnny Stough at shortstop, Beard scrambled to 16 double plays in 13 games and hit a booming .370 average and led the team in triples.

Great Gum Chewer

Visiting sports writers describe the Louisville Lad as a well-oiled machine which drops in field goals from all over the court with monotonous regularity, a very apt picture of Beard on the floor. But off the court, Beard is a bundle of nervous energy. To be with him for more than 30 consecutive minutes is like sitting next to an electric fan with a short in it.

Part of his nervous energy goes into chewing gum. He chews gum more often than a chain smoker puffs on cigarettes. He is seldom seen on the campus without a jawful, and before a game, stuffs a pack or so in his mouth and goes to work on it. Coach Rupp once shouted, after Rapid Ralph missed a couple of crip shots, "Miss another one of those and I'll take your gum away!" Beard hit a phenomenal 37 per cent of all his shots last year; his remarkable long-shot artistry pulls defensive men out close to him where he turns on a spurt of speed and goes in for a percentage building crip shot.

Last year, by virtue of winning the SEC crown, the NCAA title, and the first two games in the Olympic Trials, the Kentucky Wildcats met the famed Phillips 66 team in the finals.

The Oilers were picked to win by any margin they pleased, estimated at about 30 points, but the fighting collegians fought the AAU champs to a standstill, losing in the final minutes by score of 49-53.

Phillips Coach Bud Browning, who never looks at anyone under 5' 5" when he gets a team together, saw a lot of 5' 10" Ralph Beard that night. The Louisville Lad hit impossible long shots, crip shots, and jump shots, Browning said, Beard's best college player I've seen. We put three men on him and still couldn't stop him.

Makes 52 1/2-Foot Basket

Last year as the first half of the Tennessee game came to a close Captain Kenny Rollins threw the ball into Beard and joined the symphony of fans in ordering him, "Shoot! Shoot!" Ralph turned around, took a couple of chops on his gum, squinted at the distant basket, 52 1/2 feet away, and fired. The gun went off while it was still in the air, but two spectacular points were registered for the Wildcats as the ball knocked the bottom out of the basket.

The players remained motionless until the shriek of the fans proved they had all seen the same thing. As the players rushed up and slapped him on the back, Beard just stood there with a smile on his face as though he had just won $100,000 on a radio quiz show.

During the half time of the next home game, Captain Rollins, surrounded Beard and his teammates, hammered in a nail marking the spot where the longest shot in Alumni Gymnasium, and one of the longest in collegiate basketball, was made by Beard.

Many are the opposing players who would give their basketball shoes of only Rapid Ralph Beard had been hammered to that spot instead of a nail.

Groza Captain

Alex Groza, senior from Martins Ferry, Ohio, was elected captain of the University basketball team Monday by a vote of the Kentucky cage lettermen.

Groza, twice named All-American center, succeeds Kenny Rollins, who captained the Wildcats in the 1946-47 and the 1947-48 seasons. Rollins is now playing professional ball for the Chicago Stags.

The captain-elect was voted Most Valuable Player by his teammates at the conclusion of last season and was awarded the same distinction for the NCAA tournament last March in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Sigma Chi won the IM volleyball championship from Phi Sigma Kappa, Tuesday night in Alumni Gym, by scores of 15-0 and 15-8.

Superior teamwork enable the winners to spike the ball many times. The Phi Sigs, unorganized at first, were unable to catch up in the scoring.

Players for SX Tuesday night were: Gorham, Tabb, Pritchard, Allen, Clayton, and Boggs. For PSK, the six men were: Soper, Cavender, Frame, Boaz, Adams, and Blankenship.

Alternates for SX included: Folger, Menne, Rouse, and Walker; for PSK extra players were: Conley, Wojtowicz, Oakley, Clark, Powell, and Cecil.

On completion of the match, Bill McCubbin, IM director, presented trophies to the two teams.

Ping Pong
Wednesday, Dec. 8, was the deadline for the first round in both the singles and doubles of the ping pong tournament.

After the completion of the first round, there are 32 pairs scheduled in the doubles, and 64 individuals listed in the singles pairings.

The second round is due to be finished by next Friday, Dec. 17, and the remainder of the tournament will be held after the Christmas vacation.

Bowling
A basketball double-header, Dec. 13, in Alumni Gym, will postpone all bowling in the IM league until Jan. 3.

Tri-Y is leading the IM bowling league with a .777 average, after displacing LXA, who is now in second place. Third place goes to the 500-Club, while the Sig Eps, Phi Taus, and Sigma Nus are all in a tight race for fourth position.

Carlton Brown (LXA) has the highest individual average with 187. C. Yother (Tri-Y) with 170.5 is a fraction ahead of R. Ecklar (500-Club), who has 170.

For Dec. 8, three teams had high games; they were Tri-Y (809), Sig Eps (809), and Sigma Nu (808). The high team average was Tri-Y (786). Ecklar, of the 500-Club, took both the high individual game (211) and high individual average (189).

Reserve Walter Hirsch Sparks Cat Win Over DePaul, 67-36

By Kent Hollingsworth

Reserve forward Walt Hirsch furnished the spark that fired a sluggish Wildcat team to a 67-36 victory over a tall DePaul outfit, in the Louisville Armory Wednesday night.

The Kentuckians got off to a ragged start and throughout the first half of the game, could do no more than pass the ball out on the front line and occasionally into Barker in the forward slot. The score at the rest period was a very un-Wildcat-like 20-13.

Walt Hirsch was substituted into the fray just before the first half ended and with his excellent passing, alert defensive play and timely field goals, started the Cats rolling toward their lopsided victory.

Rapid Ralph Beard, who personally believes he never gets really going, playing in front of the Louisville fans, got going to the tune of 15 points, and Dale Barnstable added 13 points to his first period foul shots to tie Beard for high point honors for the night.

Captain Alex Groza got the rebounds as usual and tipped in 12 markers; as he was one of the most valuable men on the floor for Kentucky. Wah Jones dropped in his first two pointer for the season to start the second half.

Loose refereeing marked the fray as only one official turned up for the game. This year's DePaul team certainly doesn't stack up with last year's five. The first half of the game sure made Kentuckians miss last year's playmaker Kenny Rollins.

BOB COUSY is Holy Cross' top scorer. He is a forward, 6' 1", and a junior from St. Albans, N. Y. Last season, in 30 games, Cousy scored 486 points for an average of 16 points per game. In the NCAA meet, he hit for 23 against Michigan, but was held to six by Rollins in the UK-Crusader semifinal tilt.

Holy Cross Has High Hopes Of Upsetting Cats Thursday

By Dudley Saunders

Adolph Rupp's Whizzcats invade Boston Thursday night in an effort to prove to the Beantowners that Kentucky's 60-52 victory over Holy Cross in the NCAA playoffs last spring wasn't a fluke.

Most of the whole world, Kentucky included, is convinced that it wasn't, but the New England sports-writers, having taken on the characteristics of the Missouri Mule, believe that their beloved Crusaders, especially Forward Bob Cousy and Center George Kaftan, are going to skin the Cats bare of all glory by 10 to 18 points.

The above-mentioned roundball artists, along with a half-dozen other cohorts, had been running rampant over everything in New England and the East for the past three years, under the tutelage of Alvin "Doggie" Julian, who has now departed to take the reins of the professional Boston Celtics.

New Mentor

The new mentor at the Worcester, Mass., Catholic school is Lester Sherr.

Like Kentucky's Ralph Beard and Alex Groza, Cousy, and Kaftan have been named on many all-star, all-conference, and All-America teams.

Ever since last March, the Boston sportswriters have been smirking at the mention of Kentucky and growling "Just wait till next year" and "It was a fluke."

In case time has dimmed your memory of what happened in that memorable game, it was just a matter of Kentucky jumping into an immediate lead and staying there. Many New York observers called it one of the greatest college games ever played.

Groza Got 23

Alex Groza outscored Kaftan 23-15 at the pivot, and Kenny Rollins, now playing with the Chicago Stags, held the mighty Cousy to a single point.

Ralph Beard got in Holy Cross's hair and stayed there all night, coming out only long enough to score 13 points. Wallace Jones practically lived on the backboards and scored 22 points. Other Kentucky scorers were Barker four and Rollins eight.

Forward Frank Offring got 12 points to take runner-up scoring honors on the Crusader five.

At the half Kentucky led 36-28. Both teams stayed on even terms in the pivot, was close behind with 468, an average of 15.6, to rank 15th.

Other men to watch on the HC squad are Offring, a forward who is playing his third year at the New England school. Offring isn't quite as point-prolific as his high scoring teammates, but really shines when the chips are down.

The same can be said of J. Mul-laney, veteran starting guard, and the other veterans. There aren't many new faces on the HC squad, but they may all be pretty well-known on the court before long, many months.

In their opener, the Crusaders stomped Tufts 69-42.

Last year the Crusaders were beaten only four times in 30 starts and were the ninth highest scoring team in the nation. They lost to DePaul 47-40, Rhode Island, 49-46, St. Louis, 61-46, and to Kentucky.

Rupp Starting

As Wildcat Coach

Adolph Frederick Rupp, Kentucky's affable wizard of hardwood magic, is justly referred to as "The Baron of Basketball."

The unparalleled success of Rupp's Kentucky teams over the past 18 seasons—a tenure longer than that enjoyed by any other U.K. athletic mentor—has proven the aptness of this mythical title of nobility. If there ever was a Baron in the field of basketball, Rupp would be a likely choice for the distinction by reason of his enviable record and amazing ability to turn out traditionally top-notch cage aggregations year after year.

Currently tutoring his nineteenth edition of Wildcat basketball in defense of three top hardwood titles—the Southeastern Conference crown, national collegiate championship, and Olympic Games co-championship of the world, the crafty professor is bothered most by an almost unprecedented condition—that of no new fields to conquer.

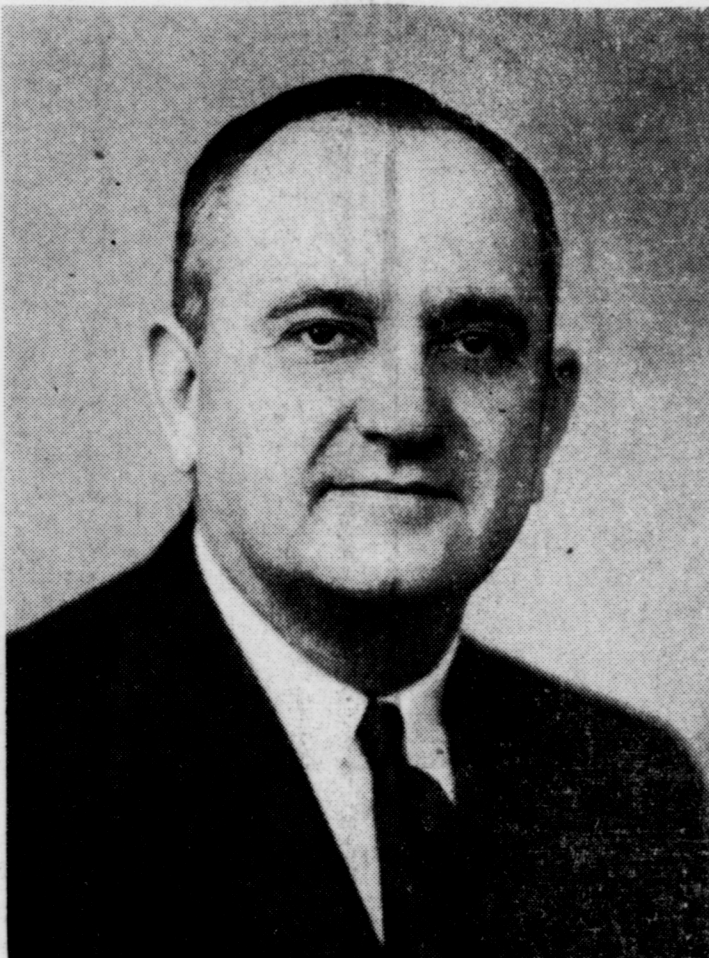

Rupp's cage aces over the past five seasons have annexed virtually every team and individual honor available in the world of basketball. Five Kentucky players were named All-Americans, eight were selected all-Conference players, the entire U.K. first string was placed on the first All-SEC honor quintet of 1947, and individual members of the squad have captured such honors as "Player of the Year," "Most Valuable Player to Appear in Madison Square Garden," and "Most Valuable Player of the NCAA Tournament."

Highlights in the team record include 139 victories against only 14 defeats during the five-year period—a .908 winning percentage, an unbroken string of 66 consecutive victories on their home floor, participation by invitation in five national tournaments and the Olympic Games, and annexation of the world undisputed national collegiate championship (Olympic Trials college bracket), NCAA and National Invitational tournament championships, and Southeastern Conference championship five times. The Cats have taken the SEC titles 11 times during Rupp's 18-year reign and have maintained continuous possession of the crown since the 1943-44 season.

The 1947-48 Wildcat cage aggregation probably was one of the greatest basketball teams in the history of the sport. Few, if any, teams achieved the outstanding success against major opposition that carried last year's Kentucky quintet through regular season and national tournament competition with 36 wins against 3 losses, one of the latter against the AAU champion Phillips Oilers in the finals of the Olympic Trials. They captured the championship of the SEC conference, the Eastern Division and NCAA national tournament titles, and won the right to place five men on the U.S. Olympic basketball entry by virtue of victory in the college bracket of the Olympic Trials tournament. In the Olympic Games, the U.K. cagers—played as both a team unit and as individuals—aided in the American sweep to the world basketball championship in eight straight games.

Far from being surpassed by his wonderful Wildcats, the Baron himself has scaled the pinnacles of basketball fame. In 1944, he won the

The 1935 Kentucky team, with big LeRoy Edwards starring, was one of the Nation's best. Undeclared, it traveled to New York and lost to unbeaten NYU, 22-23, in the last seconds via a foul called on Edwards for screening. Rupp complained bitterly about the officiating. On his return to Lexington, a newspaperman asked him to explain what happened. "I really don't know," Adolph said. "Riding back yesterday I turned on the radio. A broadcast came on from one of the churches in New York. The minister used as his text, 'He was a Stranger, and They Took Him In.' That's all I know about what happened."

Here, in all new Elgins at no extra cost, is a mainspring that eliminates 99% of watch repairs due to steel mainspring failures. Surely you'll want the very smartest styling in your watch, and this newest achievement of America's creative and productive genius. Give someone a gift hint! Only in an Elgin Watch can you have both... an Elgin with the DuraPower symbol "dp" on the dial.

Lexington Lynxes To Meet Tulane Twice This Month

Twice this month, the Wildcats of Kentucky will go against a strong Tulane quintet. The first meeting of the teams will be on December 22, Wednesday, at the Louisville Armory.

Then the Green Wave and the Cats will tangle again in the opening round of the annual Sugar Bowl cage meet in New Orleans. The date of this battle will be on Dec. 29, also Wednesday.

The winner of this contest will play the survivor of the Holy Cross-St. Louis game, the other pair in the Sugar Bowl tourney on Dec. 30. The two losers will also meet on the same evening.

Tulane's Coach Pessimistic

The Tulane hoopers, under the direction of Coach Cliff Wells, a former Indiana high school mentor, believes that his team will be vastly improved over last year, but "I don't think we'll have as good a record."

To match his feat of winning 23 and losing three last season would more than satisfy Wells. But he doesn't believe it's possible, despite the fact that all but one major performer on last season's Wave will be back.

"Now they've got the experience and every team we meet will be tough," Wells claims.

Another reason Wells isn't predicting as good a season as last is because of a more difficult schedule. "Just look at it," he says. "Texas, Rice, Kentucky twice, either St. Louis or Holy Cross, plus all the improved SEC teams."

UK Praised
"Texas is stronger than anything we played last year. The Longhorns beat NYU in New York and are better than either Oklahoma or Wyoming. Kentucky isn't a national but an international champion, since the majority of the members of the Olympic basketball team were Wildcats."

St. Louis won the National Invitational tournament and Holy Cross finished third behind Kentucky and Baylor in the National Collegiate Athletic association tourney.

Southeastern conference performer the last two years. Athas ranked fourth among the Wave's scorers in 1948.

But returning will be Warren Perkins, the man with the rubber legs who sank 316 points, Jim Riffey with 298, Virgil Risner with 259 and Melvin Payton with 179.

In addition there'll be replacements Hal Peck, Harold Jamison, Troye Svendsen, Tom Bowman, Connie Hanley and Bob Wells, Cliff's son, all of whom have had a year's experience or more and are expected to furnish adequate replacements for the big five.

Remnants of the first rotary press press were found in the hull of Noah's ark.

FRESHMAN CAGE COACH HARRY LANCASTER

Baron Rupp's capable assistant professor of basketball knowledge and general right hand man is genial, smiling Harry Lancaster. Rivaling his boss in affability and capability, Lancaster is Kentucky's first full-time assistant coach and also holds down the newly-created position of Head Freshman Basketball Coach.

Harry bosses a promising 17-man squad of first-year performers, who are ineligible under SEC rules to participate in varsity competition during their freshman year. In his "spare" time, the former Georgetown (Ky.) College athlete manages to sandwich in a large slice of scouting duties.

Rupp was one of the first men in college basketball to inaugurate an extensive system of scouting his future opponents. That very important task is now assigned to Lancaster. And Kentucky's grueling travel schedule keeps Harry busy jumping from Lexington to New York and from Cleveland to New Orleans and points South.

When he's at home, Harry spends his time tutoring his freshmen charges, working with the varsity guards, and meticulously checking over scouting reports with Rupp on future foes.

Lancaster came to the University in 1942 as an instructor in the physical education department.

During the war years, he entered the United States Navy as an Apprentice Seaman, and after 26 months service, Lancaster was discharged with the rank of Lieutenant Senior Grade.

highest individual coaching honor in the basketball world—election to the basketball hall of fame. He was the tenth coach in the history of the Naismith sport to be so honored by Helms Athletic Foundation, quasi-official organization selecting outstanding players, coaches and teams. That war year of 1944 saw Rupp call the mountains to Mohamed and come up with a force of gangling youngsters, fresh out of high school and not yet called up by the armed services. He miraculously built them into a hardwood unit which eked out a record of 19 wins against but two defeats, annexed the SEC crown and lost out to the Red-men of St. John's by a slim, three-point margin in a Madison Square Garden invitational tournament battle.

Coach Rupp also has achieved a host of equal and lesser basketball honors during his career at Kentucky, including selection as "Coach of the Year" last season by a national sports magazine. In the balloting, Rupp polled more votes than all of the rival nominees for the special distinction combined.

Colorful as he is successful, the Baron also is a Kentucky "Colonel" and is otherwise known through the medium of the press and radio by such epithets as "The Man In The Brown Suit," and "Old Rupp and Ready." The former description stems from Rupp's mania for brown. While not superstitious in the usual sense, the Kentucky mentor holds a firm conviction that brown is lucky for his teams—a belief developed while he was still coaching high school basketball and discovered that his teams lost when he wore blue suits, but won when he was attired in brown.

Rupp's Kentucky teams in his 18-year reign have won 353 contests while losing but 70 for an .834 winning percentage.

Just for the record, Coach Rupp is a native of Haldstad, Kansas, where he captained the high school team. At Kansas University, Rupp played under Dr. Forrest (Fhog) Allen, that school's noted hardwood professor.

Four Graduating Seniors Have Fine Records For 1948 Season

The Kentucky Wildcat football team of 1948 will lose four members for next season by graduation.

They are eGeorge Blanda, quarterback from Youngwood, Pa.; Doc Ferrell, a tackle from Richmond, Ky.; Wah Wah Jones, Harlan, Ky. end; and Norm Klein, speedy right halfback from Louisville.

Blanda, who developed into one of the nation's top punters while here at Kentucky, was recently named as the honorary captain of the UK eleven - - the "Come-back Kids".

The husky quarterback also was given the "Most Valuable Player" award by his teammates at the annual banquet last Thursday night for the football team. eGeorge's punt record for the season was: 53 punts; one blocked; 2346 yards kicked; and a 40.4 average per boot. He will undoubtedly be missed more than any other of the four graduating seniors.

Norm Klein Leads Team

Little, husky Norm Klein led the squad in average yards gained per try. The right halfback from Louisville Manual High averaged 31.1 on his 36 runs. He picked up a neat total of 220 yards for the season. Norm also caught six passes, good for 6 yards and had a 17-yard average on kickoff returns. He scored one touchdown. Klein has been invited to appear in the Christmas Day North-South football game in Miami, Florida.

Wah Jones Scored 30

Wah Jones, who is now busy with the basketball team, finished in a tie with Clayton Webb for scoring honors for the 1948 season with 30 points apiece.

Jones will be remembered by the UK rooters as one of the best pass receivers in the history of the school. Big Wah was always a threat when in the game, for he had the knack of slipping by the opposition's defense and grabbing Blanda's aerials for long gains.

The Harlan ace will also be remembered for his spirit and desire to play the game. In 1947, he had an appendectomy shortly after the Michigan State game . . . but that only kept him out of action only three weeks. He was back in the starting lineup against Tennessee on Nov. 22. Jones caught 19 passes this year.

for 243 yards and five TD's.

Ferrell Also Leaves

Six-foot, 200-pound Doc Ferrell, from Richmond, is the fourth to leave. Doc played a good, steady game throughout the season. He was particularly effective against Cincinnati, Tennessee and Miami. The 21-year-old grinder had the misfortune to be bucking Bob Gain for the starting left tackle berth and as a result started only a couple of games.

Came to UK in 1944, before going to the Navy, and was used at guard. He made honorable mention on the All-Kentucky team while playing for Madison High of Richmond.

Prove for yourself what throat specialists reported when 30-day smoking test revealed

NO THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS!

MAKE YOUR OWN 30-DAY CAMEL MILDNESS TEST. Smoke Camels, and only Camels, for 30 days. Prove for yourself just how mild Camels are!

Hundreds of men and women, from coast to coast, recently made a similar test. They smoked an average of one to two packs of Camels a day for 30 days. Their throats were examined by noted throat specialists. After a total of 2470 examinations—these throat specialists reported not one single case of throat irritation due to smoking Camels!

But prove it yourself . . . in your "T-Zone." Let YOUR OWN TASTE tell you about the rich, full flavor of Camel's choice tobaccos. Let YOUR OWN THROAT give the good news of Camel's cool, cool mildness.

Try Camels and test them as you smoke them. If, at any time, you are not convinced that Camels are the mildest cigarette you ever smoked, return the package with the unused Camels and we will refund its full purchase price, plus postage. # Highlights Of Miami, Florida, Trip Related

By Tom Diskin

That Kentucky Wildcat football team's jaunt to Miami, Fla., was perhaps the best trip ever taken by a university gridiron squad. The high spot of the 96-hour journey was of course the Cats' 25-5 victory over the Miami Hurricanes in the Orange Bowl Stadium.

Kentucky was favored to win by a 14-point margin. However, the Big Blue came through with a 20-point victory as a result of Harold Wooddell's last-minute pass interception and touchdown run.

30,361 See Game
A crowd of 30,361 witnessed the game in Roddey Burdine Stadium (better known as the Orange Bowl). According to Jimmy Burns, sports editor of the Miami Herald newspaper, the turnout would probably have been over 40,000 had the Miami Hurricanes beaten Florida the previous week at Gainesville. When the Gators beat Miami, 27-13, some interest in the Kentucky game was lost.

Georgia drew the biggest mob... over 46,000 people for Miami's home games this fall. Villanova-Miami played before 42,000.

Train Leaves Early
The Wildcat football team left for the game Wednesday night, Nov. 24, on the L & N from Union Station. For some reason, the train pulled out about 10 minutes early... at 7:55 p.m., and, as a result, Larry Boeck and Marvin Gay, sports scribes for The Louisville Courier-Journal and The Times respectively, just caught the choo-choo on the run.

The Cat gridders went to bed at 10 o'clock that evening and the radio adn press men a little later. The Kentucky team arrived in Atlanta shortly after 8 a.m. Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, after a rough night ride.

From the train station, the team left for the Atlanta Municipal Airport for their chartered planes to Miami, which left at approximately 9:15 o'clock that morning.

They arrived in Miami at 2 o'clock that afternoon.

We Take A Constellation
The chartered planes being full, Marvin Gay, of The Louisville Times and your sports editor left Atlanta later that day.

We left the Georgia city at 2:07 in a 56-passenger Eastern Airlines Constellation. We arrived in Jacksonville at 3:11 for a short stop. We left that city at 3:34 p.m. and arrived in Miami at 4:50 o'clock.

The entire air trip was very pleasant. We flew at 8,000 feet from Atlanta to Jacksonville and at 12,000 feet from there to Miami. Our air speed was 296 miles-per-hour. The weather was sunny for the entire trip to Miami.

At El Comodoro

The team was quartered at the El Comodoro, where practically all the visiting football teams put up.

That evening we went to the Miami Senior-Miami Edison High grid game in the Orange Bowl. Senior High School won 33-6, before "a slim crowd of 14,592 people," as the Miami Daily News reported.

The next day was spent in seeing some of the city. The football team rested all Friday afternoon in their rooms. We visited the newspaper plants of the new Miami Herald and later the Daily News.

We were fortunate enough to find sports editors in their respective offices and both emphasized that Miami is one of the most portminded cities in the United States.

We learned from Guy Butler, of the Daily News, that both baseball and basketball are expanding rapidly in that Florida city, and football interest grows more each year.

The University of Miami will play their cage games this year in a 3,000-seating gym. However, next season a large converted Navy auditorium will be used for net games which will hold around 8,000. The city is now building a new baseball park, which will be completed by spring.

Tour of Miami

Saturday morning the Kentucky group took a boat trip, sponsored by the University of Miami, around Miami Beach and saw the fine homes of such personalities as Tommy Dorsey, Warren Wright, Fred Saitte, Jr., (the Iron Lung man), Carl Fisher and S. S. Kresge, and many others.

Saturday afternoon, we were guests of the ultra-modern Shelbourne Hotel on Miami Beach. After a big lunch, everyone went swimming in the Atlantic Ocean. Later, each player was given a box of oranges and grapefruit to send home.

The Shelbourne Hotel has 160 rooms, a private beach and during the winter season the rates are just $25 to $32 per day (single and double).

Visited UM

Your sports editor spent part of Saturday afternoon visiting the University of Miami, which is actually located in Coral Gables, a suburb of Miami.

Coral Gables has a permanent population of 15,000 which increases to about 20,000 during the winter. The city, which is one of the most beautiful we have ever seen, covers 17 square miles and has an assessed valuation of over $33,000,000. We saw the famed Venetian swimming pool, one of the most unique structures of its kind in the country.

The University of Miami has three separate campuses and has a student union building that is as modern in structure and design as seen anywhere.

The school there is expanding rapidly and at present time has an enrollment of more than UK. Many of its students are from New York.

Sunday Spent Swimming

Most of the players spent Sunday swimming in the Atlantic Ocean, after the two chartered planes were grounded for the day because of bad weather in Georgia.

The majority of us chose to swim in front of Shoreham & Norman hotels in Miami Beach. The temperature for the four days there generally ranged from 75 to 85 degrees and Sunday was no exception. Unlike Los Angeles, the nights there cooled off ver y little.

Left Monday

The team, and the press and radio who stayed through, left the hotel for Miami's International Airport at 9 o'clock. We took off in the Baco DC-3 chartered planes at 10. The 28-passenger ships arrived in chilly Atlanta at 2:15 p.m. and we had a layover there of one hour and 25 minutes while the planes refueled.

At 3:40 p.m. we climbed into the planes once more and took off for Lexington. A few hours later we arrived in Lexington, but our pilot decided to go to Louisville because of the low ceiling at Blue Grass Airport.

However, we found that Louisville was just a bad and the plane returned to Blue Grass Airport and finally landed at 6:40 p.m. (or 5:40 p.m. Lexington time).

Coach Bryant to New Orleans

Coach Bryant did not return with the team. He left Miami Saturday for New Orleans where he took in the Tulane-LSU game, as Kentucky will open the 1949 grid season with the Louisiana State Tigers.

Larry Shropshire, sports editor of the Lexington Leader, and Larry Boeck of the Louisville Courier-Journal left Saturday from Miami. Marvin Gay hopped an Eastern Airline ship out Sunday afternoon for Louisville despite the bad weather to the north.

J. B. Falcouner of WLAP, and Mark Hallack of WLEX, also pulled out shortly after the game. Babe Kimbrough, sports editor of the Herald, and Claude Sullivan of WKIX returned with the team.

O. C. Halyard, former sports editor of The Kernel and now with WVLC, was in Miami on vacation and witnessed the game from the press box, high over the Orange Bowl gridiron.

Bernie Shively In Charge

Athletic Director Bernie Shively was in charge of the trip. Assistant coaches who made the jaunt were Carmie Lassie and Joe Atkinson, the latter joined the team after directing the freshmen eleven in the Wildkitten-Alabama frosh game at Anniston, Ala., Thanksgiving afternoon. Atkinson and Shropshire flew down from Alabama and arrived in Miami Friday about noon.

UK President Herman Lee Donovan and his wife made the trip to Miami with the team. They remained in Florida, however, after the squad departed where they visited friends at Melbourne Beach. Later, Dr. Donovan attended a meeting of Southeastern Conference officials at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

Bryant Praises '48 Team; Is Optimistic For 1949

Laurence Shropshire, sports editor of The Lexington Leader and former sports editor of The Kernel, last week reported, high praise for the 1948 Wildcats. Excerpts from his column follow:

"I'd like for my boy to play on a winner, but more than that I'd like for him to play on a team like this one." The speaker was Bear Bryant, and the team to which he was referring was his own University of Kentucky outfit, the third Wildcat entry he has sent to the post since he came to the local school early in 1946.

The Wildcats this fall didn't sweep the card, didn't land any kind of a bowl berth, but their coach is proud as Punch just the same.

"I think the kids did a tremendous job, getting up off the floor the way they did," Bryant exclaimed. "I took a lot of character to come back after losing three straight and their refusal to be flicked in our last two games."

No, the coach said, this year's team didn't have the talent that Kentucky had last year when an 8-3 record was compiled—no player of calibre of Jay Rhodemyre, no tackle play of the type that Wash Renshaw provided at times, no offensive guard like Matt Lair.

Kentucky's defense wasn't near as good as it was last year (the opposition got 73 points in 11 games last fall, 128 in 10 the past season), but it got a lot better toward the last when injured mainstays got back in action. The Wildcats were the only foe among 10 to hold Tennessee scoreless, the only opponent among nine to deny Miami at least one touchdown.

"We were hurt early just where we couldn't afford to be hurt—in the middle of the line and in line-backers," Bryant commented.

"And we had our toughest games early, the three we lost, and the teams that beat us turned out to be the three best in the conference. Our defense would have been better if Lee Truman hadn't been hurt at the start of the game, and had played as he did against Mississippi, we would have beaten Georgia."

Gain In Scoring

The Wildcats this year scored 199 points in 10 games, compared with 175 last season in 11, but the offense figured to be better since the team was in its second season with the "T". The average net gain by rushing in games this fall was only a few yards under the 1947 figure, but this year's Cats threw more passes, completed more (just a hair under 50 per cent on completions) and rolled up much bigger air gain.

Bryant is particularly proud of the offensive record, making as his first point the fact that the Cats gained more ground this year against Georgia, the SEC champion, than they did against the same Bulldogs while upsetting them 26-0 last fall.

It pleases him, too, that, although Kentucky didn't have possession of the ball near often enough, the statistics show an average gain of eight at five yards for every play the Cats attempted—and that includes fumbles, losses on pass attempts, and so on—every play.

Oddly enough, the Cats fumbled 38 times this year, losing the ball 20 times, compared with 20 losses in 36 fumbles last season when they were using the "T" for the first time.

Praises Blanda

Coach Bryant also put his stamp of approval on the selection by Wildcat mates of George Blanda as the most valuable senior member of the University of Kentucky football squad this year, commenting, "What-ever success we enjoyed, I feel Blanda played a large part in it—as a T-quarterback necessarily must."

Commenting further on Blanda's improvement since he was converted to T-formation play for the start of the 1947 season, Bryant expressed the opinion that the "Youngwood Pa." product had not even yet reached his peak, and predicted that he would succeed in professional football "if he gets with the right team."

Blanda was introduced as the team's honorary captain for the 1948 season and as recipient of the Jerome Lederer trophy, both honors conferred by vote of the lettermen at the U.K. Alumni Association's banquet for varsity and freshman squads Thursday night at the Student Union building.

He was one of four seniors, each also gaining his fourth letter in football, who received a watch as a gift of alumni.

The others who have completed their collegiate careers in football are End Wallace Jones, Halfback Norm Klein and Tackle Doc Perrell.

"We think Blanda did a very fine job of running the team," Bryant remarked. "He knew the offense and the players had a lot of confidence in him."

Did the coaches have confidence in him? "Well, he had some bad days, of course, but we kept him there, right on through, so we must have had confidence. And he didn't let us down."

Bryant said Blanda really hit his stride in the Villanova game last year, that he had shown a great deal of improvement as the season went along this year—"just like the whole team improved," and that he would continue to improve.

The 1948 captain was a sophomore when Bryant took over direction of the Kentucky team, and in that season he performed as a blocking back. As soon as the coach decided to install the "T", Blanda was marked as a top candidate for the ball-handling, passing assignment because "he has big hands and a great arm, and was a great straightaway kicker."

Blanda scored only one point this season (the only point-after-touchdown placement he tried), and made perhaps fewer tackles than any man on the squad, but only a few times during the campaign, and for only a brief period on each occasion was he relieved of the job of running the team on offense.

Along with the four seniors, varsity letters for the campaign which brought Kentucky a record of five wins, three losses and two ties were presented to 13 juniors and 20 sophomores and to Student Manager Unis Saylor.

Four of the sophs earned their second straight letters, having received varsity monograms for their play last year as freshmen. These were Bob Gain, Benny Zaranka, Wilbur Jamerson and Dick Martin.

Although the 60-minute player in football has virtually disappeared, it is worthy of note that only four tackles—Gain, Perrell, Lloyd McDermott and Bob Pope—played sufficient time to earn letters at that position.

Those receiving their first U.K. grid letter were Pope, Ends Jerry Claiborne and Don Frampton; Guards Pat James, Billy Wannamaker and Bill Dawson; Centers Walt Yowarsky, Bob Wodtke, Roy Ford and Bill Schaffnit; Quarterback Dom Fucci; Halfbacks Bobby Brooks, Al Bruno and Johnny Meihaus, and Fullbacks Clayton Webb and Harold Woodell.

The lettermen by classes:

Seniors — Blanda, Perrell, Jones and Klein.

Juniors — Claiborne, McDermott, Meihaus, Nick Odilvak, Dick Holway, Harry Ulinski, Charley Bradshaw, Ray Porter, Charley Bentley, Jim Howe, Bill Boller, Lee Truman and Ralph Genito.

Sophomores — Zaranka, Gain, Jamerson, Martin, Pope, James, Yowarsky, Wodtke, Ford, Schaffnit, Fucci, Brooks, Bruno, Webb, Woodell, Dawson, Wannamaker, Frampton, Allen Hamilton and Carl Genito.

What about next year's team? Kyle Vance, writer for the Associated Press reported that Coach Bryant expects Wildcat gridiron stock to shoot upward in 1949.

"You can't keep the kind of boys we have down," he said. They provided this to me by the way they got off the floor after losing three straight games this season.

"It takes character and team play to go six without losing after you have lost three in a row."

"Most of these boys will be with us again next season and we should be considerably stronger. And we have some freshmen coming along who are going to help us substantially," Bryant, begging that "all the credit should go to the boys," said he was especially encouraged by the way the team came from behind in individual ball games.

Kentucky started its comeback after losing to Mississippi, Vanderbilt and Georgia, teams that finished high in national rankings. It snatched a good Marquette team 25-0 and then outclassed Cincinnati before fighting powerful Villanova to a 13-13 tie. The Wildcats came from behind a 12-0 deficit to tie Villanova in the last half.

Florida scored first, but Kentucky came back to bury the Alligators under a 35-14 score. Tennessee was held to a 0-0 deadlock, but the Wildcats became the only team to hold the Vols scoreless. A 25-5 win over Miami ended the season and the Kentuckians gained the distinction of being the only team to hold the Hurricanes without a touchdown.

The three defeats came at a time when such stars as Harry Ulinski and Lee Truman were injured.

"Maybe we would have won one of the games we lost if we had been at full strength," Bryant said.

Because of injuries, the Wildcats used five starting centers during the season. Only tackle Bob Gain, end Wallace Jones, guard Dick Holway and quarterback George Blanda were consistent starters.

McKeen Leaves Berth In SEC

Starkville, Miss.—Because his promised "dream backfield" became a nightmare that lost four games for Mississippi State, Coach Allyn McKeen has gone job hunting.

He turned in his resignation last Tuesday night and it was accepted immediately.

McKeen, a cold, calculating tactician, has built State into a potent Southern football power in his nine years on the job. His teams won 61 Southeastern Conference games, lost 15 and tied two.

This season, despite the supposed winning combination constructed around former Army Star Tom (Shorty) McWilliams, State lost four and tied one. Most bitter loss of all was to Mississippi, State's arch rival, by a 34-7 score.

McKeen had three seasons left on a five-year coaching contract at Mississippi State.

Donovan Heads UK Delegation

President Herman L. Donovan headed the University delegation to the annual meeting of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities in Washington recently.

In addition to Dr. Donovan, others attending the meeting were Dean Thomas P. Cooper, of the College of Agriculture; Dean M. M. White, of the College of Arts and Sciences; Dean D. V. Terrell, of the College of Engineering; Dr. L. J. Horlacher, assistant dean of the College of Agriculture; T. R. Brvant, assistant director, Agricultural Extension Division; Miss Stacie Erikson, head of the Department of Home Economics; and Miss Myrtle Weldon, state agent in home economics.

Members of the University delegation will also attend several meetings of affiliated committees being held in conjunction with the conference.

Expensive newspaper and limited mechanical facilities held daily circulations of newspapers at 900 or less until after 1810.

Dixie Educators Support Regional School System

Widespread support of the Southern Governors' plan for regional education was expressed by top-flight Dixie educators meeting last week in Memphis.

The educators met in a panel discussion of the problem after a general session of the 53rd meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The plan, as outlined by Governor Millard F. Caldwell of Florida, would have the South pool its resources and intelligence to set up a great system of schools.

Caldwell is a member of the Southern Governors Conference and chairman of the Governors' Committee on Regional Education. The conference has set up a regional council of education.

The Florida Governor said the council proposes that Southern States decide what schools are needed and then organize them—sharing the expense.

At discussions following Caldwell's talk, Chancellor J. D. Williams of the University of Mississippi gave the plan unqualified approval.

Chancellor Williams said he had approached the entire plan with some degree of suspicion. But, he added, he was now convinced "it is deserving of the support of every-

Centre Students Told How Spies Helped Japs In War

Much of the success of Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor can be attributed to the spy activities of a German scientist and his daughter, a Centre College convocation audience in Danville was told by Kurt Singer, member of the United Nations Speakers Research Committee and former editor of an underground anti-Nazi newspaper.

Advocating a strong and efficient Secret Service, Singer declared that he believed "Pearl Harbor could have been prevented had sufficient funds been appropriated for the U.S. Secret Service."

According to Singer, the German

one who is interested in the development of our region." He said the plan has "nothing to do with segregation."

Governor Caldwell, in outlining the regional education plan earlier today, told educators the South is failing to provide adequate education on the graduate level.

"We have schools in some fields which are schools in name only," he said. They are not worth what they are costing. They are not worth the time the students put in. And many fields we are not touching at all."

Caldwell said separate regional schools should be set up for Negroes.

er, who interviewed Jan Masaryk shortly before his death, quoted Masaryk as saying, "If the Marshall plan improves the economic structure of western Europe and the Molotov plan in eastern Europe should fail, it may be the beginning of the end of the Russian system."

Taxation In South Favorable To Manufacturing. Study Shows

State and local taxation in the Southern states is relatively favorable to the continued growth and development of manufacturing industries. That is the general conclusion reached in a study, "Taxation of Manufacturing in the South," results of which have been published by Prof. James W. Morrow, research associate of the University Bureau of Business Research.

Statistics developed in the study show that "manufacturing, as well as general economic well-being, is advancing more rapidly in the South than in the nation generally. However, most of the Southern advance appears to be restricted to a few states."

No positive correlation was found to exist between tax loads and their distribution and rates of manufacturing growth.

Some of the Southern states . . . which are showing the most rapid industrial development have relatively heavy tax loads, whereas others have relatively light tax loads," the report says.

The investigators found that

"most Southern state and local tax administration agencies maintain relatively stable administrative policies with perhaps as high a degree of effectiveness and impartiality in their execution as are to be found in other states. Except as to property taxation, Southern industries have reasonable assurance against arbitrary, discriminatory, or otherwise inequitable treatment at the hands of tax administrative agencies."

The study analyzes numerous statistics which relate to revenue trends and the distribution of the tax load. With few exceptions these present a relatively favorable picture for manufacturing in the Southern states.

A co-operative undertaking, the study involved research reports from investigators in 11 Southern states and required nearly five years for completion and publication. It is published by the Bureau of Public Administration of the University of Alabama, in cooperation with the University of Kentucky and University of Alabama Bureau of Business Research.

Funeral Held For Kenny England

Funeral services for Capt. Kenneth Haynes England, former University of Kentucky basketball star, were held at 11:30 a.m. Friday at the National cemetery in Louisville, Ky.

Capt. England, 24 at the time of his death, died of wounds received in crossing a mine field in Italy on April 18, 1945. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert H. England, Campbellsville, and a brother, Harold D. England.

England was a member of the Wildcat basketball squad from 1943 until 1942, when he received a degree from the College of Agriculture. He was commissioned a second lieutenant when he was graduated and he was called to active duty in May, 1942. He was sent to Italy with ski troops in December, 1944. For action in Italy, he was awarded the Bronze and Silver Star medals.

At the University, he was a member of Alpha Zeta, Block and Bridge, Alpha Magna Mater and Lamp and Cross.

DeMoisey Trains For State Position

Frankfort, Ky., John (Frenchy) DeMoisey, former University of Kentucky basketball great, is training again.

The Economic Security Department said today DeMoisey is taking a training course in preparation to be an investigator of unemployment claims, particularly fraudulent ones. Pay range for the job is $250 to $300 a month.

After he left U.K. DeMoisey pitched in for the Louisville Colonels of the American Association and later was on the staff of Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

In the recent World Series, DeMoisey served as a bodyguard for the six umpires. He escorted them from the playing field to their dressing rooms. He also did investigation work for Commissioner Chandler.

Today the average is but 8.5 per cent.

The relationship of the fertility of the soil to good health is important, but even more vital to our security is the blunt fact that the United States does not possess enough good farm land at present to support a rising population. The per capita average for this country today is 2.5 acres, which is close to the minimum required to maintain the present standard of living. If we continue to lose our top soil through erosion and maintain the existing rate of population growth, the United States will be a have-not nation within the life span of this generation.

Patrick Henry, who certainly was not accused of being an alarmist in his time, once said that "He is the greatest patriot who stops the most gullies." It is a far more urgent warning today.

Kentucky's University Must Have Housing

(From the Courier-Journal)

It is not to Kentucky's credit that its State university leads an existence much like that of the old-time movie serial queen. No sooner is it resuscitated from sheer disaster, usually at the last moment, than it finds itself on the brink of a fresh and more threatening peril. Earlier this year the Court of Appeals saved the University from almost certain collapse of its faculty by lifting the salary limitation which had made it illegal to pay any professor more than $5,000 a year and kept most teachers on much lower salaries. It seemed for a while after this that the University might go forward confidently on its new expansion program.

Now President Herman Donovan warns that the expansion program is in danger because of the shortage in women's housing. While University housing has mushroomed since the war from 3,500 to 7,484, enrollment of women students has not kept pace. By straining every facility, using makeshift housing and every available rental space in Lexington, the University has managed to house 6,111 men. The women, however, cannot be housed so haphazardly. Parents demand that women students live under supervision, and there simply is no room left in dormitories, sorority houses and homes under University guidance.

The effect on Kentucky has been more serious than most of us realize. Thousands of applications for admission have been regrettably refused. Education of these girls at other institutions in many cases has been inconvenient and more expensive. Some women students have been forced to postpone their college careers.

But Dr. Donovan's plea for additional dormitory facilities is not based simply on a short-term need. Unfortunately, this temporary housing shortage can cause a long-range hurt to the University. Rapid deterioration of temporary housing makes it imperative that it be replaced within the next five years by permanent buildings. Unless this is done the University cannot even maintain its present enrollment.

There is another reason why Kentucky must maintain the University's expansion program. University planners have been forced to readjust building plans to conform with the birth rate since 1912. The unprecedented baby crop of the past six years will begin, in 1958, to be felt at the University in unprecedented freshmen enrollments. Even assuming that the present prosperity abates before that time, University estimates place 1958 enrollments at a probable 10,000 students. Upon our current efforts to prepare the University for its coming needs will rest the educational fate of these Kentuckians, and incidentally the standard of living in our State.

Army Wants Men For Berlin Lift

Operation Vittles, the airlift for beleaguered Berlin, has reached its long arm into Lexington.

Through the Lexington Army recruiting office, the Air Force sent a request to former servicemen, with certain qualifications, to re-enlist and be assigned to the Berlin food run.

Former soldiers with experience in communications, administration, aircraft maintenance, aviation specialists of all types, supply men, vehicle operation and automotive mechanics are needed.

Applicants can enlist at the grade held at discharge provided they did that particular military occupational specialty a specified time. Godman Air Force base at Fort Knox, Ky., has been designated as the enlistment center for this area.

A recent public opinion survey showed that 30% of the people in this country thought that the United States had been a member of the League of Nations.

Greatest Patriot Fills Most Gullies, Says Patrick Henry

Of all the phrases with which modern man seeks to quiet his fears, the most foolish—if not the most tragic—is "it can't happen here." We have been indulging in this sort of wishful thinking in this country regarding our natural resources. America is the land of plenty. We can feed the world. There are all-plows.

Time magazine fell into this wishful thinking trap when it devoted five pages of its Nov. 8 issue to scoffing at the "Neo-Malthusians" who are seeking to arouse this country to realization of the vital importance of proper soil conservation. In a piece satirically entitled "Eat Hearty," Time's writers deride the warning that we are rapidly approaching the marginal line of safety and that unless something is done promptly, the United States may cease to be a land of plenty. To Time, even the dust bowl of the '30's was greatly exaggerated as a portent of danger.

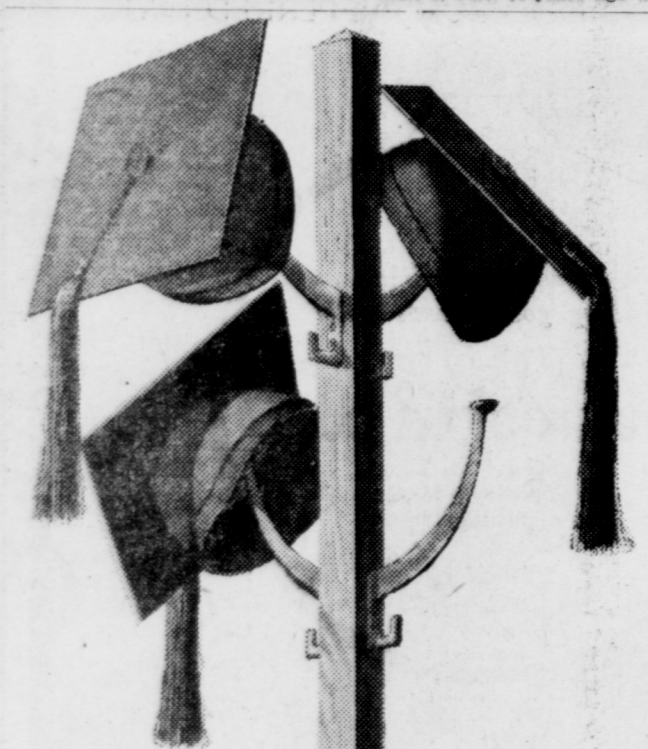

It is this type of thinking, accurately described as the "business as usual" philosophy, that represents ways new lands to be broken to the our greatest danger. This country has been playing in good luck in favorable growing conditions for the last eight years, and has been lulled, as Fairfield Osborn, author of "Our Plundered Planet," reminded the National Conference of Editorial Writers recently at Louisville, into a false sense of security.

Ironically, Time's writers apparently failed to read an editorial in a recent issue of Life magazine, a companion publication, which put the issue succinctly. The problem is, said Life, "whether we shall have a permanent or just a temporary country." Time chose to ignore also the statistics of the Census Bureau and of the United States Soil Conservation Service, which reveal that this country has left only 390,000,000 acres of farm land suitable for agriculture, and that we are losing from erosion at least 500,000 acres of land annually.

There is another factor which is largely overlooked: The declining fertility of our soil. Dr. William A. Albrecht of the College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri has pointed out the seriousness of this factor. What we have been doing, he warns, is to grow crops for bulk and not for nutrition; for so many tons to sell, but not for food value. We have increased the yield per acre of corn through the use of hybrid varieties and have boosted our yield of wheat to an all-time high.

But while the yield per acre has been rising, the concentration of protein in these grains has been steadily declining. The War Food Administration was forced to recognize this persistent decline and lowered the percentage figure which was long accepted as the standard for wheat. The protein concentration of corn 10 years ago was 9.5 per

7,200 years of college . . . and still learning

THE Bell Telephone Laboratories is known as a leader in communications engineering. On its staff are 1,622 engineers and scientists with college degrees. Among them they have 7,200 years of college training . . . and they are still learning.

They study many things. How to speed your voice across the street or around the world. How to keep your voice natural in tone and volume. How to make central office equipment capable of switching your call even faster. How to produce in laboratories the materials which are hard to get in their natural form—quartz, for instance. How to conserve the scarce metals which go into wire and cable, by making one circuit carry many conversations.

From such studies they learn how to make your service better and better, and keep its cost low.
